

Hijackers land in Somalia; pilot shot

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — With one pilot dead and 86 hostages still aboard, the hijackers of a West German airliner landed in Somalia today and let two ransom deadlines pass without carrying out a threat to blow up the plane.

A West German government spokesman said in Bonn the pilot was apparently shot dead before the Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet took off late Sunday from South Yemen. His body was dumped onto the runway shortly after it landed without permission in Mogadishu, the Somali capital.

The four hijackers have demanded the release of 13 terrorists imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey and payment of $15 million, but no effort to meet the demands was reported as the hijackers extended their deadline first to 10 a.m., EDT, then to 10:30 a.m.

The West German government let a Sunday deadline pass without any attempt at compliance. However, it sent negotiators to the airport in Mogadishu in an effort to save the hostages, who include a California woman with a heart condition and her 5-year-old son.

Armed soldiers surrounded the plane at a distance in front of the main terminal in the Somali capital — the jet's sixth stop since two Arabic-speaking men and two women commandeered it over the French Riviera last Thursday.

The West German government said it could not confirm beyond doubt that the dead man's body was that of the chief pilot, Juergen Schumann. But a spokesman said the dead man had a notebook containing the name Monika Schumann, the chief pilot's wife.

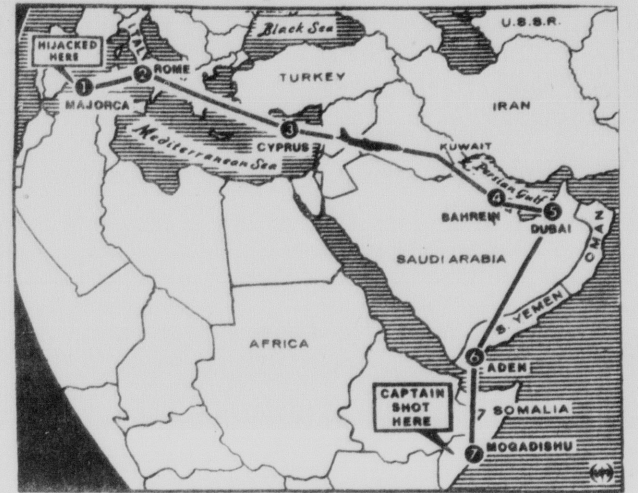

Monika Schumann, who has sons aged 11 and 2, told a German newspaper last week that her husband had expected his plane might be hijacked some day, and had told her: "If that happens, just stay calm. I'm not the type for dangerous heroics."

The death left 82 passengers and four crew members aboard the plane with the four hijackers. There was speculation that it would be dangerous for the plane to take off without a replacement pilot.

A spokesman for the Somali embassy in Nairobi said the plane was being refueled and was expected to take off again later in the day. But the Somali news agency said the government formed a ministerial committee including the West German ambassador to negotiate with the hijackers.

The Somali agency said a West German delegation led by a government minister was expected in Mogadishu shortly.

The kidnapers of West German industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer also sent word that they would kill him if the hijackers' demands were not met by Sunday afternoon. There was no indication today whether Schleyer had been killed.

Carter asserts:

Treaty facts must be aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, stepping up his drive for ratification of the Panama Canal treaty, told a new blue-ribbon committee of treaty supporters today that the American people have not heard the full story about the pact.

"It's crucial to me that the American people know the facts about the treaty, which have so far not been successfully promulgated," Carter told the panel, which met with him in the White House.

The committee includes business and labor leaders, former military officers and members of past administrations who banded together specifically to support the treaty, under fire from foreign-policy conservatives.

Carter called winning Senate approval of the pact one of the most important and perhaps one of the most difficult tasks he faces.

"What you do," the President told members of the panel, "will have far reaching impact" on the Western Hemisphere and perhaps on the entire world.

The head of the committee, Averill Harriman, one-time ambassador to Moscow who has served as a government envoy in many capacities, told Carter those seated around the Cabinet table represented only a cross-section of more than 100 persons who have joined the committee.

Harriman said the group continues to grow.

Members of the group organized the panel without official White House involvement, one aide said.

But others said the committee grew out of a breakfast for "opinion leaders" held at the White House recently by a task force headed by Hamilton Jordan, a top presidential assistant.

Members of the committee include Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; George Ball, former undersecretary of state; AFL-CIO President George Meany; Lady Bird Johnson; former senator and ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge; former Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott; Chairman Irving Shapiro of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.; Chairman Robert Anderson of the Atlantic Richfield Co., and New York lawyer John McCloy.

The meeting followed a busy weekend at the White House.

—A knowledgeable administration official said Carter got a message from Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan in which Dayan denied characterizing their recent talks as "brutal" and said he found them pleasant and productive.

Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz telephoned Secretary of State Cyrus Vance with the personal message from Dayan and asked that it be brought to Carter's attention, according to the official, who declined to be identified.

Carter said through a spokesman Friday he did not think the talks, held in New York earlier this month, were brutal and denied threatening Israel with isolation if it did not agree on preparations for Middle East peace talks.

—The White House made public on Saturday a Carter interview with newspaper editors and broadcast news directors during which the President said he is almost overwhelmed by all the things he is doing at once.

But Carter said during the session, which took place Friday at the White House, that he will not drop any initiatives because "I don't think it is in the best interests of the American people."

Carter has slipped below 50 per cent for the first time this month in his public approval rating.

Highway 750 rerouting due before council

A proposal to reroute Highway 750 off Ohio Street, to keep heavy truck traffic away from the heart of the downtown business district, will be discussed at the City Council meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Municipal Building.

The drive to relocate Highway 750 away from Ohio was started about a month ago by the Chamber of Commerce. Last week, 60 persons on Ohio Street signed a Chamber petition calling for the relocation of the highway. However, before such a change can be considered by the State Highway Commission, it must first be requested by the City Council. Chamber President Ed Kehde said Monday he plans to attend tonight's meeting in support of the proposal.

In other business, the council is slated to consider an ordinance request by Municipal Judge Peter Stohr which would set a $10 court costs fee, to be charged in all cases in which a person is found guilty of violating a city ordinance. Stohr Monday noted that many other cities in the state levy court costs to cover the expenses involved in serving warrants. These court costs would go directly into the city general revenue fund, Stohr explained.

The council will also consider a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission that Edna Gatewood, 518 West Pettis, be permitted to place a double-wide mobile home on her property.

The council will also accept bids on wiring for lighting of the Municipal Building murals that were dedicated last May.

Carter not ruffled by neutron protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four demonstrators who disrupted President Carter's church service by denouncing the neutron bomb are free on personal recognizance while the fifth is continuing his protest in jail.

The three men and two women, ejected from the First Baptist Church by ushers Sunday morning, were charged with "disturbing a religious congregation."

A sixth person who took part in the reading was not arrested.

Leaving the church, the President stopped briefly when another protester shouted for him to "veto the neutron bomb." Unruffled, Carter turned, asked, "What's that?" and then said, "They're fine young people."

Later, after returning to the White House, he told reporters: "I agree with their (the demonstrators') objective in eliminating nuclear weapons. (But) I think they were mistaken in trying to disrupt the church services.

"The Secret Service didn't feel I was in danger, and neither did I."

The neutron bomb is a high-radiation nuclear weapon designed to kill people while leaving buildings relatively intact. Carter is considering deployment of the weapon as a deterrent against a possible Warsaw Pact invasion of Western Europe.

Critics of the neutron bomb say it is inhumane and would increase the chances of a nuclear confrontation. Carter aides have said the President will decide before the end of the year whether to produce and deploy it.

Carter, his wife Rosalynn, 9-year-old daughter Amy and a group of friends from Georgia, including Mrs. Carter's former Bible teacher, attended services at the First Baptist Church.

Court clears way for Concorde

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court cleared the way today for landings of the Concorde supersonic jetliner at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport. An airline spokesman said the plane would be test-landed Wednesday and might begin daily flights Nov. 22.

British Airways and Air France said through spokesmen in New York that they would conduct a joint familiarization flight to Kennedy Airport Wednesday morning on a Concorde taking off from Paris.

The carriers said they hoped to begin daily service from London and Paris to Kennedy by Nov. 22.

The justices turned down, without comment, a request by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey that they order a delay to all Concorde operations at JFK until a formal appeal could be filed with the court.

Today's action does not prevent the port authority from filing such an appeal. In the interim, however, it appears that commercial flights of the British-French airliner New York officials have fought against for nearly two years will begin serving the airport.

British Airways and Air France are the only airlines offering Concorde flights. To date, the only regularly scheduled Concorde flights to the United States have been landing at Dulles International Airport near Washington.

In other matters today, the Supreme Court:

—Asked lawyers for both sides in the "reverse discrimination" case of Allan

Bakke to submit written briefs discussing the effect of the 1964 Civil Rights Act on the case. It could be an indication the court may base its decision on the federal law rather than the Constitution.

—Refused to hear an appeal of the contempt-of-court conviction of Jerry Paul, a North Carolina lawyer who successfully defended Joan Little in a 1975 murder trial that attracted national attention. Miss Little stabbed her jailer when he allegedly tried to rape her.

—Let stand a lower court's order directing New York City officials to take specific actions to limit motor vehicle traffic and improve air quality in Manhattan.

On Sept. 29, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York rejected two requests by the port authority to overturn a federal trial court's ruling that Concorde operations at JFK could begin Oct. 20.

In its ruling, however, the appeals court aid landings could begin "forthwith," and spokesmen for both airlines had said they intended to touch down the first of a series of test flights sometime in mid-October.

But after being asked by the port authority to temporarily postpone the effect of the appeals court ruling, the Supreme Court on Oct. 7 ordered that the landings be delayed while it considered the request.

In that request, port authority lawyer Patrick Falvey said the appeals court's ruling would cause irreparable harm because it would permit Concorde operations "before the authority has determined that such flights will not result in successful noise suits."

Falvey described JFK, situated in the New York borough of Queens, as "one of the busiest international airports in the world situated in a noise-sensitive community of almost 500,000 homeowners."

cessful piggyback transplants, but in each case used a second human heart.

In his first attempt with an animal heart, Barnard last June grafted a baboon heart to the heart of a 26-year-old Italian woman, but she lived only four hours. The doctor said then that the heart of a baboon was too small to do the necessary work and that he would use a chimpanzee heart the next time.

For the operation Thursday he used the heart of a 10-year-old male chimpanzee imported from the Netherlands.

A spokesman for Groote Schuur hospital announced that Fortes died this morning but gave no details.

Barnard was not available for comment, but a statement from the hospital was expected later in the day.

Fortes had been reported in satisfactory condition Sunday. But a spokesman for the hospital said it might take two weeks to determine if his body would reject the animal heart.

In the past three years, Barnard and his cardiac team have performed 17 suc-

Man with chimp's heart dies

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Benjamin Fortes died today 82 hours after Dr. Christiaan Barnard and his surgical team put a chimpanzee's heart in the man's body to bolster his own ailing heart.

Fortes, a 59-year-old accountant, was the second man to receive a chimpanzee heart transplant and the first to get one as an auxiliary or "piggyback" pump. In 1964, Dr. James Hardy of the University of Mississippi replaced a 68 year-old man's heart with a chimpanzee heart, but the patient died two hours later.

Deacon slain trying to stop vandals

MENTOR, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Mentor Baptist Church gathered for a special prayer service for their deacon, 39-year-old Richard W. Hartman, who died while trying to protect the church from vandals.

Mentor police said they have questioned two youths in connection with Hartman's death. He was struck down by a car Friday night as he stood on the lawn outside the church.

He was waving his arms, trying to stop the driver, when he was hit, according to a friend, James Angel. Hartman and Angel had gone to the church to deliver some supplies and to check the building, which had been a target of recent vandalism.

Angel said they noticed tire tracks across the lawn and decided to wait to see if the vandals showed up again. Two cars came across the lawn, and one of them headed straight for Hartman, moving at 35 to 40 miles an hour, Angel said.

He said that after the car hit Hartman, it sped rapidly in circles in the driveway, as though the driver were trying to dislodge the deacon from the car's hood.

Police said the youths, ages 16 and 17, were released to the custody of their parents after being arrested early Saturday and questioned.

Second welfare fraud arrest is made in Sedalia

The second of three Sedalians charged recently in connection with the state's investigation into welfare fraud was arraigned in Magistrate Court Friday afternoon.

Norma Jean Billingsley, 40, 2409 West Main, is charged with public assistance fraud, a felony. According to the warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Billingsley and her husband, John F. Billingsley, they allegedly received $641 in aid to dependent children between July 1, 1975, and March 1, 1976, while one or both was employed.

Mrs. Billingsley, arrested Friday by the sheriff's department and currently free on $2,500 bond, is scheduled to appear in Magistrate Court Oct. 27 for her preliminary hearing.

Sheriff Don Stratton said her husband is a truck driver and is supposed to contact authorities when he returns to Sedalia this week.

Marie C. Wagoner, also known as Marie C. Buso, 48, 1700 South Kentucky, the third person charged with public assistance (welfare) fraud following the investigation here, was arrested Oct. 11 and is currently free on bond pending her preliminary hearing.

Grand jury's term ends; 70 cases are filed

BOONVILLE — The Cooper County grand jury here ended its term Monday and issued a report citing indictments in excess of 70 criminal cases now pending in court here.

A total of 38 defendants were indicted resulting in the 70-plus criminal cases, the report stated, including about 48 indictments for the sale of controlled substances ranging from marijuana and amphetamines to cocaine.

A Circuit Court spokesman here said the other criminal charges included second-degree murder, first-degree robbery, kidnaping, rape, sodomy, jail escape, welfare fraud, armed criminal action and theft. Charges for burglary, bogus checks, leaving the scene of an accident and attempted auto theft were also filed, the spokesman said.

Empaneled June 13, the grand jury's term expired Monday and its three-page report included some recommendations.

In addition to the recommendation for another grand jury in two years, similar to the report of the last grand jury here in 1975, the jury members urged the condemnation of the county jail.

Castro gets warm reception, award on arrival in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — President Fidel Castro and Prime Minister Michael Manley make a joint speaking appearance today at the north coast resort of Montego Bay amid protests from Manley's political opponents over the Cuban leader's first visit to his island neighbor.

Castro's arrival Sunday was greeted with warm praise from Manley, by a cheering crowd of several thousand people watching his motorcade pass through downtown Kingston and by a boycott of his six-day visit by the Jamaican Labor party. It called the visit "mistimed and ill conceived."

Presenting his guest with the Order of Jamaica, the country's highest award for foreigners, Manley said Castro "stands out as a giant in the struggle against imperialist intervention and aggression."

"All who fight for the right to independence and self-determination of all peoples remember the inglorious invasion of the Bay of Pigs and glory in the victory of the Cuban forces there," said Manley. "We salute the man responsible for that victory."

Castro replied that Manley's "extraordinary efforts" were

Funeral service for Crosby to be simple, low-key

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A simple, low-key funeral is planned for Bing Crosby on Tuesday, a family spokesman says.

Crosby's body was to arrive in Los Angeles tonight, accompanied by his son Harry, 19, on a flight from Spain. Crosby died of a heart attack on Friday in Madrid, after playing a round of golf. He had listed his age as 73, although baptismal records list the crooner as 74.

The Roman Catholic service will be held at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church in Brentwood. Crosby, a devout Catholic, will be buried in a family plot at Holy Cross Cemetery near his parents and first wife, Dixie Lee, who died of cancer in 1952.

Crosby's second wife, Kathryn, told newsmen outside their home in the San Francisco suburb of Hillsborough that the service would be a low Mass.

"He wanted only the children and myself," she said, "but I think there are those who worshiped him for 40 years who have a right to be there."

Fair director is still waiting for an answer

State Fair Director Jerry Hermann said Monday that, although "I've stayed near the phone all morning," he hasn't yet talked with either Gov. Joseph Teasdale or State Agriculture Director Jack Runyan regarding his apparent impending dismissal.

Hermann received a letter Oct. 5 from Runyan informing him that "your services as Director of the Division of Fairs will not be required by this administration." Runyan also in the letter offered to consider Hermann for another position in the department. Hermann replied to Runyan's letter the day he received it, asking to be sent an application form for other positions. After not hearing from Runyan and Teasdale for several days,

Past winners repeat at fiddlers' contest

YANKTON, S.D. (AP) — Three persons won their second championships in and South Dakota and Open Fiddling championship categories at Yankton this weekend.

Arnold Johnson defended his South Dakota championship while Harry Hanson of Gordon, Neb. successfully regained a crown in the Open category. Judy Bloch of Springfield also defended her South Dakota Ladies title.

Hanson won the first open championship competition which was held five years ago.

More than 100 fiddlers came from as far as Alaska, California, West Virginia and Canada to participate in the event.

Officials estimated 2,000 spectators attended each of the three major performances held in the event.

Winners included:

National Invitational — Pete McMahan, Harrisburg, Mo.

South Dakota Championship — Arnold Johnson of Estelline.

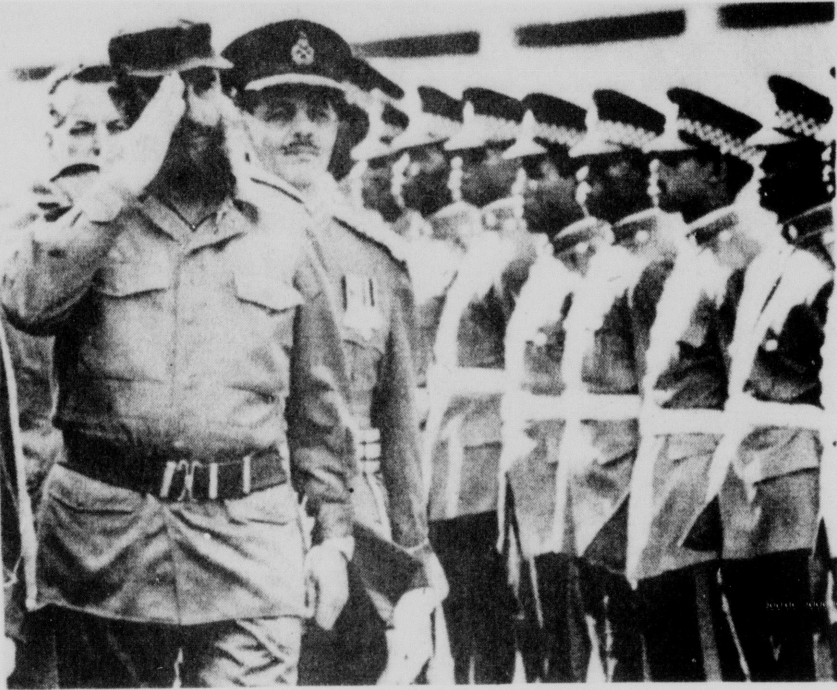

Open Championship — Harry Hanson, Gordon, Neb.

Open Class Junior — Marci Errecart of Citrus Heights, Calif.

Open Junior-junior — Bruce Hoffman of Howard Lake, Minn.

Reviewing the troops

Hermann said he unsuccessfully tried to reach the two state officials by telephone. He then left messages that they return his calls.

If Hermann does not step down from his position voluntarily by this Thursday, "he's fired," Runyan said this weekend.

Hermann, who contends he should be retained because of the Fair's successful financial record since he took over in April, 1975, said Monday he is now serving the Fair only in an advisory capacity out of his home on the Fairgrounds. "I'm available here to help because there are always questions that need to be answered," he said. "I'm just waiting to hear from someone."

South Dakota Ladies — Judy Bloch of Springfield.

Open Ladies — Lucy Pierce of Kansas City, Kan.

Open Class Senior — Laurier Birginal of Omaha, Neb.

South Dakota Senior-Senior — W.P. Larson, 81, of Sioux Falls.

Three are arrested in car theft case

OTTERVILLE — A rural Otterville resident and two juveniles were arrested early Monday morning by the Highway Patrol and Cooper County Deputy Sheriff Bill "Red" McIntyre after authorities received a telephone tip that the youths had stolen a car.

Eighteen-year-old William Boggs, Route 2, Otterville, and two juveniles, ages 13 and 15, were taken into custody and the car was recovered, McIntyre reported.

All of the youths are being held in the Pettis County jail for Cooper County authorities, pending the filing of charges by Iowa authorities.

According to reports, the youths took a 1976 Ford from Des Moines, Iowa, on Oct. 10.

All according to plan: Doctor takes own life

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — Morgan Sibbett and Wallace Proctor shared a final dinner and reflected on the brilliant sunset. Dr. Proctor then went upstairs and quietly died — all according to plan, Sibbett says.

Sibbett, 65, publicly acknowledged on Sunday that he allowed his friend of 39 years to use his home as the stage for the suicide by a drug overdose two months ago.

"Our leave-taking was quite matter-of-fact," said Sibbett. "They were just quiet days of reminiscence." The two friends spent five days together, going for walks, dining out and preparing for Proctor's death.

"We had said good-bye adequately. Nothing could be added," said Sibbett, an engineer befriended by Proctor when the two met while working in the oil fields of Saudi Arabia in 1938.

Proctor, 75, a dermatologist from Pocatello, Idaho, was wracked by advancing Parkinson's disease. He wrote relatives in July that medicine he took to control the trembling of his hands required ever increasing doses.

"Some of you may look upon suicide with uneasiness or disfavor, but it may also represent a logical, considerate and effective means to satisfy one's responsibility to the world," Proctor wrote family members on July 30.

According to Sibbett, Proctor chose to die here because he knew suicide was not a crime in Pennsylvania and he was concerned about taking his life in Pocatello, where his wife, Marie, works as a nurse.

A week after the Aug. 16 suicide, Sibbett informed Delaware County District Attorney Frank Hazel by letter of the circumstances surrounding Proctor's death.

Sibbett told the prosecutor that Proctor "wanted those last days to be peaceful and free from melodrama. And they were in a measure that is difficult to imagine."

Hazel says he will not bring charges against Sibbett and that, as far as the county is concerned, the case is closed.

"What, in effect, Mr. Sibbett said he did here was to allow Dr. Proctor to be at his home, to offer him support and pleasant surroundings where he could be comfortable," Hazel said.

Pennsylvania law makes it an offense only to aid in a person's suicide, with the offense a second-degree felony if the attempt results in death and a second-degree misdemeanor if it does not.

Energy tops Congress' agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's energy program, passed by the House but dismantled in the Senate, gets a new chance this week as Congress begins work on a compromise energy bill.

A House-Senate conference committee, scheduled to begin its work Monday or Tuesday, is starting with the non-tax provisions of the energy legislation.

Consideration of energy taxes will come later.

In the Senate, legislation is being considered that would temporarily block the government from reducing Medicaid payments to states that do not comply with federal requirements for independent medical inspections of nursing homes.

And the House is debating legislation to delay the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on saccharin for at least 18 months.

Although the House has acted on the full Carter energy plan, the Senate has yet to approve the tax parts. This opportunity could come on Friday, when the Senate may begin debating a "tax" bill approved by its finance committee that contains no taxes.

The committee voted late last week for legislation containing billions of dollars worth of tax breaks but none of the taxes Carter proposed to help save scarce fuels by making them more expensive. The conference committee has the job of reconciling the energy bills passed by the House and the Senate.

The panel affords a final opportunity for the administration to try to salvage the House-passed parts of the Carter plan that have been defeated in the Senate.

In other action this week, Congress is expected to send the President legislation to boost the minimum wage to $3.25 by 1981.

The saccharin ban postponement would allow time for new studies on whether the artificial sweetener poses a cancer risk to humans. It has been linked to bladder cancer in laboratory animals.

The Senate has already approved the 18-month moratorium and has voted to require that saccharin products carry cancer warnings like those on cigarette packs — a provision not contained in the bill before the House.

Public hearings begin Wednesday in the House ethics committee's investigation of alleged South Korean influence buying attempts in Congress. Former South Korean intelligence and embassy officers are slated to testify through Friday.

The House will debate legislation to increase the percentage of oil imports carried by U.S. flag tankers and a major proposed revision of the Social Security program that would boost payments by high-paid workers and their employers.

The Senate, which has a light schedule for the week, may debate legislation increasing educational benefits for veterans 6.6 per cent and take final action on legislation outlawing the use of children in pornography.

Kansas City teen shot

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 19-year-old man was shot in the back by a police officer late Saturday night after a car chase through south Kansas City.

Larry B. Battiste, of Kansas City, was reported in fair condition Sunday night after the shooting which occurred at a police roadblock. Hospital officials said he was in stable condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

The officer, Dan W. Cline, said in statement to police officials that Battiste was shot as Cline and another patrolman pulled Battiste from his car.

A 21-year-old man who was a passenger in Battiste's car was taken into custody after the shooting.

Husker tradition being kept alive

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Not all corn is harvested by big, expensive combines. A hearty band of middle-aged men is working by hand to keep America's old farming ways alive through husking contests.

"Rip...whack, rip...thud, rip...crack" was the sound as ears were torn from stalks and thrown into horsedrawn wagons Sunday at the National Corn Harvest Festival.

Joe Anholt, 57, of Fort Dodge, husked 463.92 net pounds of corn to defeat contestants from seven other Corn Belt states.

Competitors husked for 20 minutes. Deductions were made for ears missed in the field and the amount of husk left on the ears.

"It keeps the old traditions going," said Anholt after the competition. "I don't know if you know how much 80 acres of corn is, but in the old days it took one man all day to husk eight-tenths of an acre."

"It took a half day to husk up one row and a half day to husk back."

Anholt said he once averaged 180 bushels of corn per day for a three-week period and his best season was more than 6,000 bushels. But that, he added, was back in the 1940s.

Modern machines let the farmer harvest the same amount in a matter of minutes.

The champion, who had tallied 462 pounds of corn

Saturday at the statewide contest, complained that the crop was hard to work because of the drought.

"This dry weather made for hard picking. The corn's a little bit small and the ears aren't all the same size — some are bigger than others."

Runner-up in the national contest was John Jackson, 55, of Osage, Kan., who netted 436 pounds of corn.

Only a few men husk corn by hand, said Jackson, and the competition stays pretty much the same. But he said more states were adding contests and the national gatherings could get tougher.

Bob Ferguson, 53, of New Sharon, Iowa, took third with 408 pounds.

"I'm not as old as most of the fellows out here," he grinned. But Ferguson, who had finished second in the state contest Saturday with a weight of 426 pounds, admitted to being fired.

"A major league baseball pitcher gets four days off to rest," he joked.

Fourth went to Howard Carson of Lincoln, Neb., with 378.72 pounds, fifth to William Rose of Kewanee, Ill., with 358.26 pounds and sixth to Ellis Reay of Montevideo, Minn., with 358 pounds.

The "old timers" class — for contestants 65 years of age or more — was won by Frank Dougherty, 69, of Cumming, Iowa with 182 pounds.

San Antonio power failure . . . but one building with emergency power

San Antonio loses power for 3 hours

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Electric power vanished in San Antonio Sunday night and large numbers of the 800,000 residents were without electricity for as much as three hours, utility officials said.

The lights went out at about 7:10 p.m. after a static line snapped and wrapped around major transmission lines from the Calaveras Lake power station about 14 miles south of San Antonio.

Spokesmen for City Public Service said overloaded generators in other areas of the grid automatically shut themselves off but a backup generator failed to kick on.

Some power was restored at 8:38 p.m. but failed just three minutes after the lights came on. Full power was restored at 10:02 p.m. with electricity from a grid system that drew on other power supplies in Texas.

Emergency generators supplied power to hospitals during the blackout. Police said there were some reports of looting but that the number of crimes reported during the outage was less than usual for the night. Police Chief Emil Peters said it was possible there were more crimes, but that they did not get reported because of communication problems at the police station.

It had originally been reported that a transmission line had been severed. There was also a report, later discounted, of an explosion at the Calaveras Lake power station.

Jesse Poston, CPS assistant general manager, said the static line that broke was designed to prevent lightning from striking power lines. He said it wrapped itself around three major circuits from the Calaveras Lake station, causing the three transmission lines to short circuit.

Poston said it had not been determined what caused the static line to break.

Arraignment set in murder case

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — A 21-year-old St. Charles man was to be arraigned Monday on charges stemming from the death of a St. Charles girl whose body was found in a vacant lot.

Capital murder warrants were issued Sunday night against Guy Lee Schnick of St. Charles, authorities said.

The partially-clothed body of Carol Dailey, 16, was found at noon Saturday by two men on their way to work, authorities said.

Investigators said Miss Dailey was stabbed at least five times in the chest, back and neck. An autopsy showed internal bleeding as the cause of death, they said.

Police said Miss Dailey's parents reported her missing about an hour before the body was found.

Somalia is a located on a promontory jutting into the Indian Ocean, with the Gulf of Aden as its northern boundary.

HECKART/GILLESPIE FUNERAL HOME

What can I say? What can I do? If you've avoided visiting the home of a terminally ill friend or relative because you don't know what to do or say when you get there, you're not alone. But here are some things you can consider.

DO IT NOW
Visiting them now shows them you're still a friend. Visiting at the funeral shows the widow (er) and family the same thing, but also that you waited too long. Do it now, and show your care.

What to say and do:
Say that you've been praying for him and mean it. Say that you've brought a book that might help. Say you've arranged to take that friend to the hospital (or doctor's office) for the regular visit next Thursday, so the spouse can tend other chores. Take his wife's grocery list along with yours when you go marketing next week. Offer to fix a lunch, wash a car, drive the kids or any other special little chore as needed. But do it now.
Don't stop there.
After the funeral, all for the above are still good examples to follow - and may aid in comforting the family.

Anita: Pie not funny

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Uniformed policemen carefully checked media credentials over the weekend as Anita Bryant held a news conference a day after an assailant, who claimed he was a homosexual, plastered her with a fruit pie.

The singer, who has crusaded against laws which prohibit discrimination against homosexuals, was less than cheerful about the pie-throwing incident.

"It wasn't fun," she said, adding that the media in Des Moines, Iowa, where the incident occurred Friday, was apologetic.

"There are days when I wonder if it's worth it all. I'm just as chicken as anybody else. I would like to take care of just my own family and not be involved in this messy business," she said.

"But after much prayer and wrestling with God, if I had it to do all over again, I'd do it."

Miss Bryant was in Wichita on her way to a religious rally in Liberal Saturday night.

It was in Wichita that an ordinance was passed last month that resembled the one which brought her into the limelight in Florida last spring. The ordinance prohibits discrimination on the basis of sexual preference.

One or two new tall fescue lawn varieties will likely be released in the next three years. We have some promising tall fescue types that have good disease resistance and finer leaf texture than the Kentucky-31 now being grown by many homeowners.

These tall fescues have better summer heat and drought tolerance than bluegrass but, until now, have not had the fine leaf texture. We think we can improve that texture and still keep a good deal of the heat and drought tolerance common to Kentucky-31.

Another that looks reasonably promising is Kenhy, a fescue-ryegrass hybrid released last year out of Kentucky. The newest fescue variety, Missouri-96, works fine for producing good animal gains but hasn't stood up to the close cutting it would get in lawns.

The IRS is not planning to mail Package X directly to its list of some 210,000 tax practitioners across the U.S. IRS is planning to mail to each of these practitioners in early October a copy of Publication 1045 which contains order blanks for Package X and tax forms. Tax practitioners who do not receive copies of Publication 1045 by the middle of October should contact their district IRS office in order to obtain a copy.

Plant crocus
In five months the crocus will be in bloom again. Plant bulbs soon after purchase. Fall planting of bulbs is essential, as they should not be saved for spring planting.

Crocuses may be planted in many locations in the landscape: lawns, flower borders, rock gardens or around trees. They should be planted in rich soil with good drainage, because they cannot survive locations where there may be occasional standing water.

Their grass-like leaves are produced in the spring and should be allowed to die naturally before they are cut off. When planted in lawn areas, they should not be mowed off with the grass. When leaves are cut too soon, the plants will be weakened and not bloom in later years. If one wants crocuses in lawn areas, new bulbs should be added yearly to maintain an adequate display.

Plant crocuses 2 to 4 inches deep. In heavy soils, a 2-inch depth is usually adequate, while in loose and sandy soils, a depth of 3 to 4 inches is best. In locations where there is frequent freezing and thawing, especially in clay soils, the planting should be mulched. Shallow planting or no mulch allows corms to be heaved out of the ground. Check plantings during the winter and spring to make sure that this has not happened. Any visible corms should be placed back beneath the soil. Usually, if they have not been exposed too long, they will survive.

Fireplace care
An increased concern for conserving energy has prompted more homeowners to use fireplaces as a winter heat source. It has also resulted in an increase in the number of chimney fires.

A three-part maintenance program to reduce the chances for chimney fires is to inspect your fireplace, clean and repair it if necessary and avoid burning soot-producing materials.

To clean a chimney, cover the fireplace opening with an old sheet wet with water and hung on a wooden frame made from scrap lumber. Then fill a burlap bag with straw, rags, or sawdust, and add a couple of large stones or bricks. Tie a rope on the bag and lower it into the chimney, pulling it up and lowering it until the flue walls are clean. Finally, remove the sheet, wet the soot with a garden sprayer and clean up. To keep the chimney clean, don't burn wastepaper, old milk cartons, plywood, leaves or heavy sapped wood.

Body-builder, female fan swap shots

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — When a woman in the crowd asked body-builder Arnold Schwarzenegger to take off his shirt and display his rippling chest muscles, he answered, "I'll show you mine if you show me yours."

So Barbara Hubbard stripped off her brown turtleneck sweater and bra.

The surprise strip drew gasps from the more than 500 people lined up at the J.C. Penney store in the Fairlane Center. But it barely fazed Schwarzenegger, who was there to shake hands, pose for photographs and sign copies of his new book, "Arnold: The Education of a Body-Builder."

He unbuttoned the top of his shirt and pulled it back to give a brief glimpse of the muscles he showed the world in the movie "Pumping Iron."

Mrs. Hubbard, a 29-year-old Plymouth homemaker, was satisfied.

"I would have done anything to see his chest," she said.

HEW memo suggests a 'Don't Smoke Day'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "National Don't Smoke Day" and an end to price supports for tobacco farmers are suggested in an internal memo at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, officials said Sunday.

HEW officials said the memo was submitted by a task force on anti-smoking initiatives and was reviewed last week by Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

"This was a memo submitted as an absolute vacuum-cleaner sweep of anything anybody could think of," said one HEW official, adding that the list contained about 35 ideas to discourage smoking.

The official said Califano rejected some of the ideas outright, including one suggestion that the government recommend lawsuits against cigarette companies by persons injured from smoking. "Califano checked the 'no' box (next to the lawsuit idea) — and wrote in the margin 'a thousand times no,'" the official said. "Even the memo said this may not be a very good idea."

The HEW secretary checked the 'yes' box next to the suggestion for a "National Don't Smoke Day," the official said. However, she said the secretary's interest only meant the idea was worth studying.

"Nothing has been approved," she said. On price supports, the official said Califano wrote in the margin: "What can we do to help the small (tobacco) farmer?"

New Zealand venison denting U.S. markets

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If deerburgers catch on with the fast-food crowd the way hamburgers and fried chicken have, some enterprising farmers in New Zealand may be on the verge of an export bonanza.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that deer farming is "a small but rapidly expanding business" in New Zealand and that some producers are "challenging sheep raising for profitability."

Although still relatively small compared with imports of beef from New Zealand and other countries, official USDA trade figures show that foreign venison has made a sharp intrusion into the U.S. market in the last two years.

Venison imports in calendar 1976 rose to 242,000 pounds, valued at $397,000, from 71,000 pounds, worth $74,000, in 1975, according to USDA records. A spokesman said a further increase is expected this year.

Nearly all the foreign venison came from New Zealand, although some enters the United States from Bangladesh and other sources, the spokesman said.

The report on New Zealand deer farming, in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, was written by Harold T. Sanden, the U.S. agricultural attache in Wellington.

Comparatively, imports of beef are much larger than the venison shipments, last year totaling more than 1.2 billion pounds from the 15 countries eligible to ship fresh, frozen or chilled beef, veal, mutton and goat meat to the United States under a 1964 quota law. About 260 million pounds came from New Zealand, second behind Australia's 632 million pounds.

Most of the quota-type meat, however, is beef used for processing into hamburger and other products.

Processed meat such as canned corned beef is not covered by the quota law, which was designed by Congress to protect U.S. producers from foreign meat being dumped on the markets.

There is no U.S. quota restriction on deer meat, either. And that fact may be tantalizing to budding New Zealand deer farmers fed up with herding sheep up and down the country's hilly countryside and seeing export prices of beef plummet in recent years.

Sanden said that New Zealand's deer farming evolved from "one or two" operations in 1972 to an estimated 130 which now have more than 20,000 breeding animals in their herds.

"Several hardy souls set out to give deer farming a try, and today are doing nicely in their small but prosperous new industry," he said.

One reason is that export prices of venison by the end of 1976 averaged about $1.18 a pound, while lamb brought about 33 cents a pound.

Deer were introduced by New Zealand settlers in the mid-19th century. There were no natural predators and the animals thrived so much that they became pests, competing with sheep and cattle for forage.

Government culling programs were initiated to thin out the natural deer herds and some of that meat moved into export channels. Then some people thought about raising deer in captivity, much as cattle are kept in U.S. feedlots.

Producers found that the domesticated deer gained weight more rapidly than those in the wild with venison from the animals about the same in flavor.

"However, a greater degree of uniformity is possible with venison produced on deer farms, compared with meat from wild deer," Sanden said. "Venison's big advantage over lamb and mutton is its extreme leanness."

Although the future of New Zealand's venison venture is not certain, Sanden noted that "in many agricultural endeavors it is usually the pioneers who reap the biggest benefits" and that, as more people get into the business, financial returns tend to decline.

FARMING IS EVERYBODY'S BREAD AND BUTTER!

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Many factors affect arteries

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband had a heart bypass operation. They told us one artery was completely blocked, two were partially blocked. They only did the one artery that was completely blocked and never explained why they didn't do all three.

Also I would like to know if there is cholesterol in veal liver?

Dear Reader — A limited amount of obstruction of an artery does not decrease the blood flow through it. As long as 70 per cent of the opening is still there the fatty cholesterol deposits won't make that much difference. There is a critical level of blockage that starts causing problems. The doctors probably felt on the basis of what they could see at the operation that a bypass around the partially blocked arteries would not significantly improve your husband's circulation to the heart.

You can improve his condition though by helping him eliminate or avoid obesity and having him on the proper diet. If he smokes he should stop. The success of many bypass operations depends on what kind of program a person follows after surgery. If the person persists in eating the wrong foods, being obese and smoking, the end result is not so good.

Yes, veal liver contains cholesterol, about 300 milligrams in a 100 gram (three and a half ounce) portion of raw liver. That small serving alone will take up all the allowed cholesterol for the whole diet for one day. All forms of liver are moderately high in cholesterol content.

To help you with a diet plan I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis. It will give you the general principles you need to follow. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 26 years old but the growth of hair on my chest is very scarce. There is more hair on the right half of my chest than on the left. Is there some way that more hair will develop on my left side or on my upper chest as a whole? Is there a chemical imbalance that may create this problem? Would cutting or shaving the hair I have create more?

The hair growth in other areas is adequate although not in large quantities even in the pubic region. I hope you can give me some advice to help.

Dear Reader — The best advice I can give you is to forget about it. I suspect your friends don't even notice it.

Before you have hair on the body you have to have hair follicles. It is an inherited characteristic for some people to have fewer follicles than others.

A normal male in all respects may have little hair on the body. Some rare males are born with no significant amounts of hair anywhere, so hormones are not the answer.

Shaving your sparse hair will not help. It might cause your skin to itch but that is about all. What hair there is may be shorter and stiffer like a stubble but when it grows out it will be the same. Cutting hair does not affect its growth despite the old idea that it stimulates growth. I presume you have an adequate amount of hair on your head. Be glad you have it there rather than on your body. (NEA)

Man who won legal battle to obtain Laetrile is dead

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Howard Walker, the Rossville, Kan., man who won the legal fight to obtain Laetrile treatments, lost his battle with cancer Saturday.

Dr. Sidney Cohen, Walker's physician, said Walker died peacefully, apparently while sleeping. He was 43.

Walker, a heavy equipment operator for Shawnee County, had filed suit in U.S. District Court here in August, asking that he be permitted to take Laetrile as treatment for the cancerous lung tumor in his chest. Judge Richard D. Rogers ruled in September that he was to be permitted treatment and there was to be no interference.

After some delay due to the objections of the hospital where Walker was to take the Laetrile, hospital authorities waived their rules in this case only and treatment was started Sept. 16. Dr. Cohen said at the inception of the treatment that Walker had about two weeks to live.

Cohen said Walker's condition had gradually worsened during the last few days and Saturday the tumor, located in his chest, finally blocked off the flow of blood to his heart.

Walker began receiving the Laetrile treatments in September and after the first few, Walker said he was "feeling great."

He said he did not know whether the reaction was physical or psychological.

Walker had said he wanted the Laetrile treatments as a last resort because everything else had been tried and nothing had worked.

He stressed that his physician did not advocate use of Laetrile but was willing to comply with the patient's wishes in administering the substance.

In that interview, Walker said:

"I don't know whether it's the Laetrile or a positive attitude, or my faith in God or the good wishes of all the people who have expressed their concern but I think something is helping."

Survivors included his wife, two daughters and three sons.

Consumer protection agency

Esther Peterson says attempt will succeed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Esther Peterson says she is convinced that the drive for an independent consumer protection agency will succeed, despite recent setbacks. "I'm not going to say when," she adds, "but I certainly think in this Congress that decisions will be made."

Mrs. Peterson is President Carter's special assistant for consumer affairs. Her mission, she explained in a recent interview, "is ... to help get this bill (establishing a consumer agency) through Congress."

That job is proving more difficult than most people expected earlier in the year. Both houses of Congress passed similar bills last year, but, in the face of a threatened veto by President Ford, failed to produce compromise legislation.

With Carter's support, backers of the concept predicted victory in 1977. They now concede they would lose if the issue came to a vote today. Mrs. Peterson said the reason for the problem is twofold.

"Number one, it was a very safe vote for people in the other administration because many people who voted for it knew that the president would veto it ... and a lot of those people changed when it became a reality." They changed, she said, "because of the second reason, which is the extremely strong opposition that has come from (part of) the business community..."

She believes the trend will turn around before the end of 1978. She said there is a growing realization in government that the consumer's voice is important and a growing realization in business that consumerism can be profitable.

Comparing the consumer movement to the drives for organized labor, civil rights and women, Mrs. Peterson said, "My feeling now in the consumer movement is the next of the popular movements ... People who say that the consumer movement is on its way down, I think, are missing the signs on the wall. I think it's quite the opposite. I think we're just beginning to surface ... Change takes time. You have to have patience."

Mrs. Peterson, 70, has plenty of experience in change and time. A native of Provo, Utah, she has been in Washington since the late 1930s. She was assistant director of education for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, served as the union's lobbyist, was an assistant secretary of labor under President Kennedy and was vice chairman of the President's Commission on the Status of Women.

TV personality married in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jon Ritter, the son of the late country-western singer Tex Ritter, has been married to Nancy Karen Morgan.

The lavish wedding of Ritter, star of the ABC television comedy "Three's Company," and Miss Morgan took place at the Hotel Bel Air on Sunday.

When, in 1964, President Johnson created the post of special adviser for consumer affairs, he named Mrs. Peterson to the job. She held the post for three years, later served for seven years as a vice president for consumer affairs of Giant Foods in Washington and, in April, was back in her old job at the appointment of Carter.

Leaning back in a chair in her office in the Old Executive Office Building next to the White House, Mrs. Peterson reflected on the changes that have come in the past 13 years.

Young women solicit prince through mail

CLEVELAND (AP) — Several young women have sent photographs of themselves in hopes of meeting Prince Charles. But he will stick to a strictly ceremonial schedule when he visits Cleveland Thursday.

The mail, which has been sent to British Consul-General Leslie Reid, includes an invitation from a young man, that he and the 28-year-old heir to the British throne go out for a night of bowling and few beers and, perhaps, meet a few girls.

Bureau pondering powdered alcohol

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ultimate in the dry martini may be headed for the American market — powdered booze.

The Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is studying powdered alcohol, developed by a Japanese firm and being considered for sale in pre-mixed cocktails.

The actual alcohol, still in liquid form, is in tiny particles suspended in a powder that looks like a gelatin desert mix.

And, in fact, the first sales of the product in Japan have been as a rose wine gelatin.

But cocktails in small cans or foil packets are being studied for the American market. Global Marketing of Seattle, said distribution in this country depends on how the Treasury Department decides to tax the product.

A Treasury Department spokesman, who said the product's safety will be checked, noted that officials were having some problems deciding how to apply tax laws written for liquid alcohol to a powder.

Mike Hill of Global Marketing said initial plans, if the government approves, call for cocktails that could be made by simply adding water to the product.

He noted that there are pre-mixed cocktails on the market, as well as powdered mixes to which the drinker adds his own alcohol to make a cocktail, but said this powder would be less bulky and easier to use.

With the powdered product, for example, a customer could tear open an envelope, add water and have a whiskey sour, daiquiri, Bloody Mary or other cocktail, Hill said.

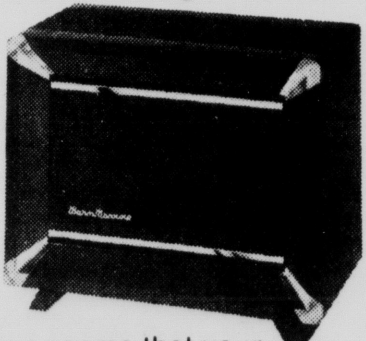

A government spokesman said the product could have a substantial effect on alcohol use, notably by campers and others carrying food into the wilds.

Carter on horns of Mideast dilemma

WASHINGTON — Some wide disagreements between Israeli leaders and the Carter administration are bursting to the surface at a time when the price of U.S. support of Israel is escalating.

It is beyond argument that there would never have been an Israel but for strong U.S. support, led by President Harry Truman, for the creation of a Jewish homeland. And Israel would not have survived wars in 1948, 1967 and 1973 but for expensive military, economic and intelligence support from the U.S.

It may be debatable, in the minds of some who think Israel now has atomic weapons, as to whether Israel can now survive without military and economic assistance from the U.S. which approaches $2 billion a year. But most Americans, including most Jews, regard the U.S. as Israel's only ally of consequence, and the one force keeping Israel afloat in a sea of hostile Arabs.

The question of the hour is whether the U.S. can or will pay the ever-higher price of guaranteeing Israel's survival when Israel's leaders are pursuing policies that some Carter advisers consider a danger to the well-being of the U.S.

The Carter administration has been lacerated recently by angry U.S. Jews who feel that Carter is making deals with the Soviet Union which compromise Israel's security in order to get a Geneva conference on the Middle East. What Mr. Carter is struggling to do is find a way to maintain a secure future for Israel without jeopardizing the economies of the U.S. and the Western world — or increasing the risk of war between the U.S. and the Soviet Union.

Consider petroleum in the Arab countries — oil now so critical to the U.S. (and Western Europe and Japan). In 1948, when Israel was created, the U.S. imported only 129 million barrels of oil (costing $283 million in 1975 dollars), with only 14 per cent of that coming from Arab countries. In 1967, a year of war in the Middle East, the U.S. imported 412 million barrels, at a cost of $1 billion, with 15 per cent from Arab countries. By 1973, year of the latest Mideast war and of the devastating Arab oil embargo, U.S. imports had risen to 1.2 billion barrels, costing $4.2 billion, with over 24 per cent of the imports provided by Arabs.

In 1976 the U.S. spent $25.5 billion to import over 2 billion barrels of oil, 43.5 per cent of it from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Libya, Algeria and other Arab countries.

Whatever the moral, ideological, cultural and domestic political reasons for supporting Israel, the reality is that Jimmy Carter also has some compelling reasons of national interest for trying to deal "even-handedly" with Arab-Palestinian demands and interests.

More fighting in the Middle East is certain to produce another oil embargo, the effect of which would be so crippling that the U.S. might be driven to try to seize by force oil fields in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and elsewhere — this producing a frightful danger of nuclear war with Russia. Which explains the Carter administration's urgent search for peace, even if it means Israel's withdrawal from the West Bank and the creation of a Palestinian homeland.

Israel says "never" to the proposal of a Palestinian homeland. And only a few days ago Israelis were uttering Premier Menahem Begin's religion-rooted argument that Jews have an "historical, eternal right" to the West Bank and other territories conquered in 1967 and 1973. and that Israel will never give them up.

President Carter cannot say to Israel: "Make concessions to the Palestinians and give back most of the conquered land, or no more U.S. support." To do so would subject him to a domestic political barrage of such intensity as to virtually ensure defeat of any bid for re-election.

Nor can the President merely accept the hard line being put forward by Begin and Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, for that would be an invitation to Arab leaders to withhold oil, and to the Russians to become more disruptive in the Middle East, possibly including efforts to overthrow moderate Arab leaders.

Mr. Carter's dilemma is enough to make you question the sanity of any American who goes out seeking the presidency.

In Washington Two blocs of voters divergent

By MARTHA ANGLE and
ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Remember the "generation gap" of the 1960s? That phrase was so overworked in books, magazines and newspapers that it was rapidly discredited as a meaningless cliché.

The concept is worth reviving, however, because it's a central element in a compelling new scenario for the future of politics and government in this country, during the 1980s and beyond.

The far-sighted analysis, in the form of a detailed memo now being privately circulated in Washington, is the work of Carl Wagner, a talented political organizer and a veteran of three presidential campaigns at the age of 32.

Wagner's candidates, all Democrats, lost in 1968 and 1972, but last year he coordinated election day activities on behalf of President Carter's campaign organization. He currently is director of campaigns for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Wagner's thesis begins with a demographic observation: For the first time in the history of this country, there are two — rather than one — dominant age groupings within the nation's electorate.

One group, composed of young adults, is clustered around the age of 30. That generation underwent an exceptionally intense and searing introduction to public affairs — a spate of assassinations, the tumultuous civil rights revolution, the war in Vietnam and the Watergate scandals.

The other group is composed of those over 65 years of age. Its politics were shaped, in great measure, by a series of equally profound events — The Great Depression, the New Deal, World War II and the "cold war."

By the mid-1980s, Wagner points out, each of those population clusters will number more than 40 million, thus dominating electoral politics while embracing very different philosophies, concepts and values.

Many members of the older group are convinced, for example, that the remedy for virtually all of our domestic social ills is direct intervention of the federal government, invariably accompanied by infusions of large amounts of money.

The younger group, the children of the post-World War II "baby boom," has challenged many of the basic precepts of its elders. Wagner points out that its "negative consensus" includes those basic elements:

— "Direct government intervention as a problem-solving mechanism may not work."

— "Cold war polarization does not effectively address the goal of avoiding a nuclear holocaust."

— "Material consumption for its own sake should not be the only expressed purpose of our political and social systems."

The younger generation has been exceptionally successful in convincing others to accept many of its goals — including racial and sexual equality, vastly increased emphasis on consumer and environmental concerns and a shift in emphasis from "big government" to more manageable community-oriented units.

"But if the goals advocated by this new generation have been vindicated, the assumptions leading to these goals remain unarticulated for purposes of presenting a plan for the future," Wagner notes.

On the other hand, he points out that although many of "the goals of the older generation have been set aside, its political assumptions...remain the only clarified benchmarks for public policy and political leadership." Although the sheer size of the older generation guarantees that it will continue to influence public affairs, the age of its members almost certainly precludes the possibility that it will be the source of future national leaders.

In the coming decades, those leaders will come from the younger group — and they will face the difficult challenge of building a consensus broad enough to embrace two generations with profoundly disparate concepts of government and mon it library

Change at Fair

Although he has lingered on longer than most Fair directors who go through a change of administrations, Jerry Hermann has now been given his walking papers.

Hermann revealed the other day that he has been asked by Director of Agriculture Jack Runyan to step down from the job he has held since April of 1975, when Gov. Christopher bond appointed him to head the Fair.

The skids were being greased under Hermann earlier this year, but to its credit the Teasdale administration thought better of the idea and decided to keep Hermann on through the 1977 Fair. But the Fair director realized it was only a matter of time.

So long, Bing

Because the American entertainment world without a Bing Crosby seemed incomplete, we somehow thought he would go on forever. So his death Friday at the age of 73 has left a couple of generations of Americans the poorer.

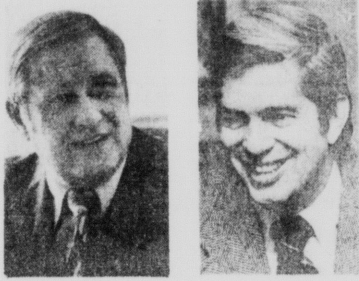

With his uniquely mellow voice and easygoing humor, Crosby's popularity never seriously waned. He didn't know the Hermann took over the State Fair during a low point, with the memory of the disastrous Ozark Music Festival still fresh and amid reports of mismanagement. He staged three very fine Fairs, and during his term of office succeeded in sharply cutting the deficit of the exposition. By any measurement, Hermann has been one of the best Fair directors Missouri has had.

Although we are sorry to see him go, it seems to us there is little to be gained by Hermann's announced intention to fight his dismissal. The job is a political one, it always has been under both parties, and surely Hermann realized this when he signed on. Better to depart gracefully, with the thought that it was nice while it lasted.

meaning of the word has-been. His record hits were far too numerous to mention. One of them, "White Christmas," has a permanent place in the nation's collective memory.

Throughout his spectacularly successful career, Bing remained a strong family man, a faithful churchman, a nice guy. It was great to have him going our way for so long.

WASHINGTON — Likeable, loquacious John Byington is supposed to lead the national crusade against dangerous products. Yet he seems to devote more of his time to polishing his political image and gallivanting around the globe.

He has hired a public relations firm, which also attends to his political grooming. He has the necessary assets — good looks, amiable mien and social knack — to set him apart from ordinary men. Now Terzian Associates, a firm that specializes in charm courses for politicians, is helping him to merchandise his political appeal.

The company's president, Carl Terzian, has arranged several speeches for Byington, has introduced him in the right circles, has persuaded magazines to write articles on him and television stations to interview him. Associates say Byington has his eye on high political office in his native Michigan.

Last year, the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which Byington heads, paid the Terzian firm $17,000 in consulting fees. There was no connection, Terzian solemnly attested, between his services for the government and for Byington. Terzian told us he had helped Byington "on a volunteer basis, purely out of friendship for John."

While Byington was busy giving interviews, the complaints against dangerous products were piling up inside the commission. A backlog of 150 dangerous products now awaits Byington's attention.

But the chairman has been more interested in blowing his horn than in attending to the technical, tedious details of his office. For his latest promotion scheme, he has enlisted Ronald McDonald, the hamburger clown, to huckster product safety.

Merry-go-round

Safety czar uses job as springboard

He paid $425,000 last year to McDonald and Little, an Atlanta advertising agency, to ballyhoo the commission's efforts. The same agency is also paid to stimulate the national appetite for McDonald's hamburgers. The two objectives have now been combined into one glorious campaign to sell hamburgers and safety out of the same drive-ins. The burger chain has been authorized to use the commission's seal in a safety campaign, which may include passing out free refreshments. Hopefully, these won't be served in the McDonald chain's glasses, which allegedly contain an unsafe measure of lead. The Consumer Product Safety Commission is supposed to regulate McDonald's, not give the chain its official stamp of approval.

Byington's hamburger connection has stirred a rumpus in the backrooms of the commission. For example, Commissioner R. David Pittle has sent Byington a confidential memo complaining: "I do not want the commission's efforts to be viewed as reinforcing the desire of children to go to McDonald's hamburger shop to obtain a (safety) check-off list complete with burgers and fries."

Pittle also objected to the coincidence that both McDonald and the commission are clients of the same advertising agency. "The appearance of favoritism is inescapable," he warned. Nor should McDonald's be allowed to use a government seal in its safety campaign, Pittle protested. The commission "should (not) be in the business of reviewing public relations material developed by private corporations... The potential for abuse is simply too great," the memo warned.

Those who question Byington's actions, however, sometimes have difficulty finding him in. He is often flitting around the world on official business. Last spring, we reported that he had flown at the taxpayers' expense to faraway places with strange sounding names in Europe, the Far East and the Caribbean.

The publicity didn't seem to slow him down at all. He just kept on going to California, Florida and Puerto Rico. He made flying visits to Chicago, New York City and Portland, Ore. He also made four speechmaking trips to Michigan, the land of his ambition.

Byington's staff has been busy, however, while he has been on the loose. The staff has been pushing plans to reimburse businesses for losses caused by the commission's actions, thus assuring the manufacturers of unsafe products that they would have nothing to risk for their shoddy work.

A staff report contends that reimbursement would "defuse opposition" from the business community, "eliminate a major source of uncertainty in the economy" and prevent companies "from being burdened with inequitable losses."

Byington has stayed around the commission long enough, meanwhile, to find jobs for his friends. He temporarily hired two members of his former law firm, Dennis Nystrom and Frank Fortescue, to hold down key posts.

More about the Bakke challenge

Your recently published editorial in support of Allan Bakke's "reverse discrimination" case (Oct. 13) was redundant, to say the least.

If the number of minorities that you have employed in "white collar" positions in your organization typifies the manner in which a "vast majority of Americans today fully support the idea of upward mobility by members of minority groups," then certainly any reasonable person would wonder why affirmative action programs are necessary.

In spite of the substance of his case, most minorities can appreciate the fact that Allan Bakke had enough respect for the law to legally challenge the University of California's interpretation of it, as opposed to those who in total disrespect of the law resort to all kinds of absurd subterfuge in their attempts to violate it.

And as for those persons in society who achieve their upward mobility "strictly on the basis of the color of one's skin, and at the expense of the rights of others"...well, every reasonable Osage Indian would appreciate your point, I'm sure.

Incidentally, for those who might have missed it, would you mind publishing on this page the number of white students who were in fact admitted to the University of California's medical school when Bakke was turned down?

Cut/serve cake feeds twelve

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press

DEAR CECILY: I've noticed that a great many of the cut-and-serve cakes are baked as eight- or nine-inch squares. I'd like a new recipe for a cake baked in a 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan so I can cut it into 12 portions. Can you oblige? — CLUB HOSTESS.

DEAR CLUB HOSTESS: Although you wrote me some time ago, I thought of your letter this week when we tried a new recipe for a cut-in-the-pan cake of the size you specify. Fresh Bartlett pears, cored and chopped, are used in a delicate batter. You don't have to take time to peel the fruit. Moreover, the cake has a streusel topping so it is self-frosted. It's definitely a cake to serve warm from the oven or at room temperature shortly after cooling. If there are any portions leftover, you can wrap them in foil, store in the refrigerator and heat before serving; after such storage, the fruit softens the batter and the dessert is more like a pudding than a cake. If you enjoy the delicate flavor of fresh Bartlett pears in pies, you'll also appreciate the flavor of the fruit in this cake. — C. B.

FRESH PEAR CAKE

2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
3 to 4 ripe but very firm, medium-size Bartlett pears
¾ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
2 large eggs
1 teaspoon instant coffee dissolved in ¾ cup hot water and cooled
Streusel Topping, see below

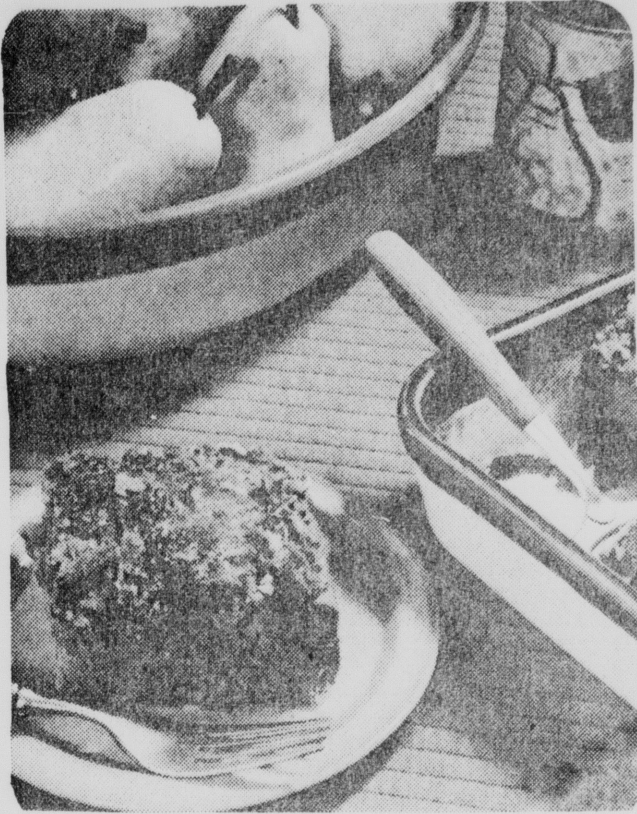

On wax paper stir together the flour, baking soda and salt.

Core pears but do not peel; chop fairly fine — there should be 3 cups.

In a medium mixing bowl cream the butter and sugar; beat in the eggs until blended. Stir in the flour mixture, in several additions, alternately with the coffee just until smooth; fold in the pears.

Turn into a buttered 13 by 9 by 2 inch baking pan; sprinkle batter with the Streusel Topping.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out free of batter — 45 to 50 minutes. Place on a wire rack to cool. When still slightly warm, cut into squares and remove with a wide spatula; serve at once. If you like, pass whipped cream — no need to add sugar to it because the cake and its topping are quite sweet.

Makes 12 servings.
Streusel Topping: In a medium-size wide bowl stir together ½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar, 3 tablespoons flour and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. With a pastry blender cut in 2 tablespoons butter until particles are fine; work in ½ cup finely chopped pecans or walnuts.

SAUSAGE GEMS

Adapted from a recipe sent to us by Bernice Hawes of Tallahassee, Fla.

¾ cup buttermilk baking mix
½ cup bulk hot sausage (¼ pound)

½ cup grated (medium-fine) cheddar cheese, slightly packed (2 ounces)

Thoroughly mix together the ingredients with your hands. Pack into small muffin-pan cups (each 1¼ inches across the top and ¾ inch deep), filling full. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven until browned — 20 to 25 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 9. Recipe may be doubled.

Betty Ford says pardon cost election

NEW YORK (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford says her husband's pardon of Richard Nixon probably cost Ford the 1976 election but he had to do it because former president Nixon was "a sick man."

Mrs. Ford, quoted in the current issue of McCall's, said: "Many people who definitely were for Jerry could not bring themselves to vote for him because he pardoned Nixon."

"I don't think they realized what a sick man Nixon was — physically sick — which tended to affect ... decisions."

peppers, each about 4 inches long (seeds included)
1 cup sugar
1 cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon ground cinnamon

In an electric food processor or hand-operated food grinder, finely chop the tomatoes, onion, celery and sweet and hot peppers. (If you use a food processor, follow the manufacturer's directions for chopping.) Turn into a 5-quart saucepot with the remaining ingredients; stir well. Over medium heat bring to a boil; boil gently, uncovered and stirring occasionally, until thickened — about 1½ hours; continue boiling gently, uncovered and stirring often, until very thick — about 30 minutes longer. At once ladle into hot ½-pint canning jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in a boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Makes about eight ½-pint jars.

Reader requests hot chili sauce

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I know it's late in the season, but would you print a recipe for a hot chili sauce? — RELISH FAN.

DEAR RELISH FAN: When made with ripe, red tomatoes that have lots of flavor — we used the beefsteak variety — the following recipe turns out a superb relish. If the fresh hot peppers called for are not on hand, you may use a teaspoon of the dried red pepper flakes widely available in supermarkets. The recipe was adapted from one contributed by Mrs. Grace Clark of Carbondale, Pa. She serves the chili sauce to her family all year round with hamburgers and ham as well as with cottage cheese. — C. Polly's pointers

Convince fleas to flee carpet

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I wanted to cook a roast in my crock pot but it was too large for the lid to go on. I covered the roast that extended out of the pot with aluminum foil and very carefully sealed it tightly around the edge of the pot. This worked wonderfully in place of the lid. — ZOE ANN.

DEAR POLLY — Miss L's Pet Peeve was the sloppy way that people write their names and addresses on orders or requests for catalogues sent to the company she works for. When I am ordering anything by mail or writing to a company that would need to send a reply I always enclose a printed name and address label such as most of us have. The company can stick it on the return mail so I never have any trouble. — MRS. O.B.

DEAR MRS. O.B. — I do hope you clip this label to your letter; such small bits of paper could stay in the envelope or be easily overlooked. It is a good idea. I well know how hard it often is to decipher different hand writing. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — When my children were babies I removed formula stains from their clothing by first wetting the spots and then sprinkling unseasoned meat tenderizer on them. Let stand for half an hour and then launder as usual.

For years my faithful standby for removing black grease stains or ballpoint ink stains has been undiluted pine oil. Pour on a small amount and rub fabric gently together. I always test a small area first and have never had either of these remedies ruin a garment. — MARY O.

DEAR POLLY — I do not have a clothes dryer but have contrived something that works just as well. On cold winter days and rainy summer days I hang my laundry on three parallel lines in my basement. At one end I put a large portable window fan on a small table and turn it on high. It acts like a nice windy day and I can usually iron most of the laundry in a little over an hour. This costs less to run and we did not have the initial expense of buying a dryer. — EVELYN.

DEAR POLLY — Most hospitals now give patients plastic items to use while there and they are yours to keep when you leave. Never discard them as they can be put to many uses. I use the water jug for frozen orange juice, the soap dish to hold pan cleaners kept on the sink, the cup for toothbrushes, the pan for washing small items and so on. — EILEEN.

DEAR POLLY — When sewing a rolled hem put a row of machine stitching along the edge to be rolled and then trim the edge close to the stitching. This really speeds up that hand work and prevents stretching, too.

When ironing garments that are cut on the bias always iron the material with the grain of the fabric and avoid sagging that results if this is not done. — ROSE.

DEAR POLLY — Since both coffee and electricity are so high these days I use my thermos bottle to keep coffee for lunch rather than making fresh. I brew enough coffee for both breakfast and lunch. After breakfast I pour what is left into the thermos so it is hot for lunch. We are retirees trying to stretch every dollar and think this saves in two ways. — OLGA.

DEAR POLLY — I have three gold chain choker type necklaces that I like to wear but everytime I wear them my hair gets caught. It is time consuming to try to get the hairs out of these necklaces. Now I light a match, touch the hairs to burn them off and then run my hand down the length of the chain. It is clean and ready to wear again. — DIXIE.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like to know if anyone could tell me how to get rid of fleas in my carpet. — SHARON M.

DEAR POLLY — Is there any way I can possibly get fleas out of my shag carpet or does one have to get rid of the carpet? — MILDRED.

DEAR SHARON M. and MILDRED — Some of the insecticides formerly recommended for this have now been banned but you might buy one from an exterminating company that would be effective. If all else fails, treating by a professional exterminator may be necessary. It would certainly be far less expensive than replacing the carpet.

Fleas really hop around and doubtless are in your upholstered furniture if they are in the rugs. If they are not too bad you could try spraying the room with FLY spray. Close the room for an hour or so perhaps when you are going shopping or will be away from home for a while. Repeat in two to three days. — POLLY.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Cards show their Hart; Chiefs fall short again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The guy who wrote the song "You Gotta Have Heart" could have had St. Louis Cardinals' quarterback Jim Hart in mind.

The Cardinals certainly got to have Hart. The 33-year-old Hart couldn't get out of bed last Monday. He could hardly move on Tuesday. He threw the ball ever so gingerly by Thursday. He didn't look capable of playing a National Football League game by Sunday.

But Hart, who was bounced off the artificial surface last week by Dallas' Harvey Martin, not only played Sunday but passed the Cardinals to a 21-17 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. Both teams now are 2-3 in the National Football Conference East division.

Hart suffered injuries to his neck, shoulder and four fingers of his passing hand when Martin dumped him. He still was in pain standing on the sideline Sunday before the Eagles' game.

"When you're playing, you're mind blocks out pain,"

Hart said after completing 17 of 25 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown. As he talked, he removed a steel brace from his left knee and leg.

"I've been wearing this since 1974," Hart explained. "It keeps me from being a potential hospital case."

Hart had other protection Sunday. The Cardinals' offensive line kept the Eagles from breathing on the wounded quarterback, let alone tackling or sacking him.

"I couldn't start worrying about getting sacked," Hart explained. "Once you start worrying about getting sacked, you're in trouble. You've got to fight it (fear)."

The Eagles' scored first on a 28-yard field goal in the opening quarter by Horst Muhlmann. Then Hart flexed those four sprained fingers on his passing hand and went to work.

He completed four passes in a six-play, 72-yard touchdown drive. On the 38-yard payoff toss, Hart faked a handoff, whirled and threw to wide receiver Ike Harris on the left sideline, who took the ball into the end zone, and it was 7-3.

Before the half ended, Hart overcame two holding penalties against the Cards to lead a 13-play, 68-yard TD drive. Terry Metcalf romped the final 10 into the end zone and it was 14-3.

In the fourth quarter cornerback Roger Wehrli intercepted an Eagles' pass and pranced 41 yards to the Philadelphia 37. Hart hit Jerry Latin for 20 and a first down at the Eagles' 11. Latin ran for 9 and 2 yards and it was 21-3.

But the Eagles refused quit as quarterback Ron Jaworski unleashed 36 and 50-yard scoring passes, the first to Herb Lusk, the other to Harold Carmichael, and with 1:53 left in the game it was 21-17.

When Latin fumbled and linebacker Drew Mahalic recovered for Philadelphia at the Eagles' 46, the Eagles had a chance to win, but a fourth-down pass by Jaworski was intercepted.

"St. Louis didn't beat us," Jaworski said bitterly after the game. "We beat ourselves with that fumble, penalties and three intercepted passes."

Philadelphia's Harold Carmichael hauls in a 50-yard touchdown pass from Ron Jaworski in the closing minutes of Sunday's Cards-Eagles game. A desperate Eagle comeback fell short as the Cards won 21-17.

Fake field goal helps Broncos beat Raiders

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

Jim Turner has to be higher than Denver, which is a mile high to begin with. The 36-year-old placekicker caught a touchdown pass in the Bronco's surprise rout of the Oakland Raiders.

Denver was leading Oakland 14-7 in the second quarter Sunday when Turner trotted on for a field-goal attempt. But it was a fake. Holder Norris Weese, a reserve quarterback, took the snap and rolled right to pass.

"I looked first for Riley Odums (a tight end)," said Weese. "But you can't waste time on the play and I saw Turner wide open ... and couldn't believe it."

Turner had drifted to his left and was standing alone in the end zone where he caught the 25-yard pass that gave the Broncos a 21-7 halftime lead en route to a 30-7 victory. It boosted Denver to a 5-0 record and a one-game lead over Oakland in the American Conference West.

"I ran into the end zone out of fear," said Turner. "Speed wasn't involved."

While Turner's first touchdown in 14 National Football League seasons was certainly a highlight, it was the Denver defense that did in Oakland, intercepting seven Ken Stabler passes, three by linebacker Joe Rizzo, and recovering a fumble.

"We stunk up the place," said Stabler, who gave Oakland a 7-0 lead with a nine-yard scoring pass to tight end Dave Casper in the first quarter. But Denver tied it before the period ended on Craig Morton's 10-yard touchdown toss to Odums and went ahead in the second quarter on Lonnie Perrien's 16-yard touchdown run.

The loss stopped Oakland's winning streak at 17 regular season and playoff games, one short of the record held by the Chicago Bears of 1933-34 and 1941-42 and the Miami Dolphins of 1972-73.

A successful fake field goal at Bloomington, Minn., resulted in a 21-16 victory for the Minnesota Vikings over the Chicago Bears in overtime.

"It seemed like the thing to do," said Bud Grant, who ordered the fake attempt on first down on the Chicago 11-yard line 6:45 into overtime. It worked as holder Paul Krause, a defensive back who played quarterback at Iowa, passed to Stu Voight near the goal and Voight took it in for the winner.

Chicago, which got 122 yards rushing from Walter Payton, had gone ahead 16-13 in the third quarter on Bob Avellini's two-yard pass to Greg Latta. Fred Cox then tied it at 16 with his third field goal, a 21-yarder, with 12:24 left in regulation time. Matt Blair, Minnesota's 6-foot-5 linebacker, played a key role by blocking a conversion attempt in the second quarter and a field-goal attempt with 1:41 left in regulation play.

Dallas and Baltimore remained the only other unbeaten NFL teams, each 5-0.

Dallas whipping Washington 34-16 and Baltimore downing Kansas City 17-6. Elsewhere, Cleveland edged Houston 24-23, Buffalo downed Atlanta 3-0, Miami stopped the New York Jets 21-17, New England nipped San Diego 24-20, Detroit edged Green Bay 10-6, Los Angeles beat New Orleans 14-7, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 21-17, the New York Giants handled San Francisco 20-17 and Seattle outlasted Tampa Bay 30-23.

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh meet tonight.

Cowboys 34, Redskins 16 Efron Herrera kicked field goals of 44 and 52 yards, Roger Staubach threw a 59-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson and Robert Newhouse scored a six-yard TD in the Cowboys' second-half explosion at Dallas. Washington had one net yard passing as Billy Kilmer was sacked five times.

Browns 24, Oilers 23 Houston's Billy Johnson returned a punt 87 yards for a touchdown before Cleveland took a 21-20 halftime lead on the strength of Brian Sipe's short TD toss. Houston went head 23-21 on Tony Fritch's third field goal of the game in the fourth quarter, but Don Cockroft won it for the Browns on the final play of the game with a 36-yard three-pointer.

Bills 3, Falcons 0

O.J. Simpson's seven-yard run on third down to the Atlanta 13-yard line set up Neil O'Donoghue's 30-yard field goal in the second quarter as the Bills snapped a 14-game losing streak before only 27,348 fans, the smallest crowd in the five-year history of Buffalo's Rich Stadium.

Simpson's 138 yards rushing also pushed him to 10,062, making him only the second man to break the 10,000-yard mark in NFL history. The other is Jim Brown, who retired with 12,312 yards.

Dolphins 21, Jets 17

The Dolphins raced to a 21-3 halftime lead on two Bob Griese scoring passes and a five-yard touchdown run by Benny Malone, who had 105 yards in the game, then held off the Jets who got two scores on one-yard runs by Clark Gaines.

Patriots 24, Chargers 20

Steve Grogan hit Don Hasselbeck with a one-yard pass for a 7-0 New England lead and then clinched the victory with a four-yard toss to Hasselbeck with 3:09 left in the game. Sam Cunningham rushed for 141 yards for the Patriots.

Lions 10, Packers 6

"You silence the boos by winning," said Greg landry after his nine-yard touchdown pass to Ray Jarvis with 3:01 remaining gave the Lions their victory. Green Bay had gone ahead 6-3 on Cester Marcol's second field of the game in the third quarter.

Series heads back to New York

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An old fashioned revival meeting, called by their very own faith healer, Tom Lasorda, was credited with transforming the Dodger blues back into the Dodger Blue.

"This was the real 1977 Dodger team," said Steve Garvey after Lasorda preached fire and brimstone and the Dodger bats spoke firepower and base hits. The combination was pure salvation for the National League champions, who rapped out 13 hits, four for extra bases, to blast the New York Yankees 10-4 Sunday.

The World Series now hops back to the East Coast with the Yankees ahead 3 games to 2 and still lacking one victory before they can claim their 21st world title.

Yankees Manager Billy Martin originally named Ed Figueroa, troubled by a sore finger the past few weeks, to be his starting pitcher for Game 6 Tuesday night. But Figueroa, not as ready to pitch as Martin said he was, balked, forcing Martin to switch to Mike Torrez, the third-game winner.

Lasorda will be going with a proven winner of his own, Burt Hooton, who stifled the New York bats on five hits in the second game at Yankee Stadium last Wednesday night.

On the verge of extinction Sunday, Lasorda turned preacher, telling his players in a pregame meeting that, win or lose, "I wouldn't trade this baseball team for any other team in the world."

Ron Cey, the Dodgers third baseman and the only regular without a hit or a run scored Sunday, was skeptical about the importance of the team meeting, but decided: "The results were there."

Those results included Steve Yeager's three-run homer in the fourth inning, Reggie Smith's two-run blast in the sixth and the sound, nine-hit pitching by Don Sutton.

"I normally don't believe in rah-rah pep meetings," said Yeager, who also contributed a fifth-inning sacrifice fly before leaving the game with strained ligaments in his knee. "But it evidently worked for some guys."

Yeager said he had two games left in his ailing knee. "I'll see you Wednesday night (after Game 7) in our clubhouse," Yeager told newsmen.

Garvey also expects to be in the winning clubhouse Wednesday night, but said it wouldn't be a bad idea to have another pregame revival meeting.

"At one point we were 7-0 after team meetings," said Garvey, who had a double and a single and scored a pair of runs. "I guess this makes us 8-0."

"We're human beings and human beings get tired mentally and depressed mentally. What Tom Lasorda did was he got everybody together and, again, told us of his feelings of warmth and affection for us. As human beings we can benefit from this."

"It got our feelings moving in the right direction." That direction was evident immediately in Game 5. Dodger leadoff batter Davey Lopes socked a triple off the top of the left-field wall against Yankees starter Don Gullett, who started on Opening Day but did not figure in the decision. No. 2 batter Bill Russell smacked a single to left for a 1-0 lead.

Garvey stroked a double to right center in the fourth and came home on Dusty Baker's single to left, which Lou Piniella misplayed, allowing

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Forget about miracle rallies and dramatic come-from-behind triumphs.

It was just business as usual Sunday for the Baltimore Colts, and Coach Ted Marchibroda was content.

"We play what we like to think is whole football. Records don't mean any difference," Marchibroda said after his Colts held on for a 17-6 National Football League victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

"We knew we had to play 60 minutes of football. We told our team this was the best 0-4 team in football."

Only after Sunday's fray, the struggling Chiefs had slipped to 0-5 — the worst start in their history — while the Colts boasted their fifth straight victory against no defeats.

Baltimore, which had used a 35-point explosion to overcome Miami a week ago, boasted the leading scorer, passer and runner in the American Football Conference entering the Kansas City game.

But after first-quarter touchdown runs by Ron Lee and Don McCauley, the Colts could manage only a 44-yard field goal by Toni Linhart against the game but over-matched Chiefs.

"We didn't operate as efficiently as we have," admitted quarterback Bert Jones, who was limited 90 yards passing. "Our running game was quite a big reason for our success. It's enough to win and that's what counts."

Baltimore built a quick 14-0 lead. Lee, who finished with 62 yards rushing, scored from one yard out after the Colts got the ball on the Kansas City 48 on their second possession.

Then after the Colts recovered a fumble by the Chiefs' Ted McKnight on the ensuing kickoff, McCauley bolted over from the two for his seventh touchdown of the year.

Fullback John Brockington, signed earlier in the week by Kansas City, rumbled over with a one-yard scoring run for the Chiefs midway through the second quarter to close the gap to 14-6.

Linhart's field goal was the only scoring in the second half as both teams missed opportunities.

Baltimore, which had fumbled the ball away in the Kansas City end zone on its opening drive, was stopped on a fourth-down situation at the Chiefs 23 in the third quarter.

The Chiefs saw a Jan Stenerud field goal try blocked, an extra point attempt fall victim to a bad snap and a fourth-quarter drive stopped by a Tony Reed fumble on the Baltimore 14.

Windsor stops Clinton drive to save tie

WINDSOR — The Windsor Greyhounds and the Clinton Cardinals fought to a 0-0 tie Friday night, but it took a goal-line stand by Windsor to keep it that way.

At one point, the Cardinals had a first down on the Greyhound seven, but the Windsor defense held on fourth-and-goal from the one.

Windsor's only scoring opportunity came when they got inside the Clinton 20, but a 35-yard field goal failed.

Howard Bullock led the Windsor attack with 82 points.

Richard Gray and Mark Cochran led in tackles with 12 and 11 respectively.

Windsor's record now stands at 5-1-1. Clinton is 3-2-2.

Getting hit just part of the game

Matt Burks, who has become a starter for Smith-Cotton at fullback and linebacker this year, doesn't mind people taking shots at him.

"No, I like to get hit. It's just all part of the game. That's why I like offense. I like to run the ball."

Burks became a starter at linebacker earlier in the year, but he didn't get his chance to start on offense until Keith Fletcher injured a shoulder against Jefferson City. Last Friday, against Hannibal, he scored his first touchdown on a one-yard run.

A junior, Burks will earn his first letter this year. He also participates in track and wrestling.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Burks, Route 3.

Sacred Heart cagers lack only experience

By RON HIGGINS
Staff SportsWriter

The Sacred Heart Gremlins and head coach Tom Jennewein are working toward another basketball season in the Kaysinger Conference, and this year will be just like any other year in preparing for the rapidly approaching season opener.

There is one problem for Jennewein's Gremlins, however. Last year's starting five won't be around when the Gremlin coach looks for experience on the court. The Gremlins lost seven players to graduation after last year and among them were starters Brad Nicholson, a 6-3 center who led Sacred Heart in scoring, John Borchers, Bruce Dooley, Mel Simon, and Mike Fall. Matt Makarewicz and Kent Felten round out the departed seven.

Jennewein will have varsity lettermen returning with some experience under their belts. This year's roster of ten players includes four returning lettermen, five players promoted from the junior varsity, and one transfer.

Dan Fall is one of the letterman returning and is highly regarded by his coach. He has been named the team captain. The senior guard, according to Jennewein, is the best shooter on the team. "He'll do real good this year," said Coach Jennewein. "He came on strong at the end of last year and he's a smart player and he uses his head well on the floor."

Other lettermen include Steve Grieshaber, a 5-9 senior guard; Joe Lalla, a 5-11 senior wingman; and Lenny Freund, a 6-1 senior forward who will not be in uniform until later on in the season due to a leg injury he suffered practicing for cross country. "Hopefully," said Jennewein, "He'll be ready in the second half of the year. His right leg is in a cast and we'll have to wait until he gets it off before we can tell anything. It's a day by day thing."

Those moving up from last year's JV are 6-1 junior forward Paul Chancellor, 6-4 junior center Vernon Cook, 6-0 senior forward David Fall (twin to Dan), 5-11 junior forward Mark Felton, and 5-9 junior guard Howard Simon.

Rounding out the ten man squad is Gary Weller, a 6-1 senior forward who transferred this year from Precious Blood in Kansas City. Weller is a brother to Rick Weller, who was one of Sacred Heart's leading scorers as a senior three years ago with a 14.7 scoring average.

Jennewein said his practices are "getting better each day" but he's been concentrating more on defense. "Things are coming along pretty good," he said. "We haven't been working on offense too much — mostly defense."

Last year's junior varsity boasted a 15-2 record and the Gremlin coach expects that to be a help. "We had a lot of quickness last year," he noted. Jennewein expects the team to experience a slow start but he said they will improve with each game. "They'll find out early that they aren't playing junior varsity anymore, but they will adjust to the inexperience and play pretty good."

The Sacred Heart mentor is optimistic about the new season, as every coach should be. "I think we'll get better," he said. "Barring injuries and other things, we'll do pretty good, but I don't think we'll be that good very early in the year."

Jennewein said it is really hard for him to tell right now what his team will do or how it will respond in game situations. "We're not playing any conference games in November — they're all in December and January — so that will help us out. We're not very big, but we've got some real quick people in Simon and Grieshaber."

"I think it'll be pretty well balanced as a whole," he said speaking of the conference race this year. "Cole Camp will be strong with their big kids as always and Warsaw and Smithton will also have some big ones coming back." Also mentioned was last year's powerhouse, Stover. "They lost a lot but they have (Jim) Garr and (Loren) Burke returning and they're gonna surprise some people who think they lost too much, but they're not too bad."

Last year's 16-10 season is behind Sacred Heart, including consolation trophies from the Kaysinger Conference Tournament and the Smithton Invitational. The team also brought home a second-place trophy from the Northwest Invitational. They also finished in a three-way tie for fourth place in the conference standings with Smithton and Warsaw. All had 4-4 marks.

With last year forgotten, the Gremlins have a challenge and only playing time will tell about this year's inexperienced squad.

Yank dugout still a zoo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They don't call the New York Yankees the Bronx Zoo for nothing.

At 4 p.m. PDT Sunday, Manager Billy Martin was asked to name his starting pitcher for the sixth game of the World Series Tuesday night in New York.

"Ed Figueroa," he said.

Why not Mike Torrez?

"Because I said Ed Figueroa."

But an hour later, just as the Yankees were about to head for Los Angeles International Airport following a 10-4, fifth-game trouncing at the hands of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Martin was singing a different tune.

"Torrez will pitch the sixth game," he said.

What happened?

Figueroa has been troubled by a nerve in the index finger of his pitching hand since leaving the fourth game of the American League playoffs in his fourth inning, more than a week ago.

"Figueroa threw twice over the weekend and he feels good," was Martin's first report. "We're just going to go six games. We're saving Torrez for spring training."

For one of the few times in his Yankees career, the easygoing Figueroa refused to talk.

NEMSU hoping for Top 10 spot

By The Associated Press

The national rankings in NCAA Division II are on Ron Taylor's mind today.

"We're hoping we can get into the top ten," Taylor said after his Northeast Missouri State football team routed Southwest Missouri, 49-0. "The players are very excited about the prospects. It would be good for us, but it would also be good for the prestige of the entire league."

Steve Powell, the leading rusher in Division II, romped for 236 yards on only 14 carries, including a 90-yard touchdown burst, as the Bulldogs rolled up 530 yards total offense.

In other Missouri college action, Southwest Missouri State blanked Northwest Missouri, 16-0; Missouri-Rolla knocked off Central Missouri, 20-14; and Lincoln lost a non-league match to Morningside, 35-22.

Missouri Southern was upended by Emporia State, 15-13. Wayne State handed Missouri Western its first defeat, 21-15. Graceland scored nine points in the fourth quarter and beat Tarkio, 16-14, and Ottawa nipped William Jewell, 7-6. Culver-Stockett rolled over St. Ambrose of Davenport, Iowa, 36-0, and Missouri Valley whipped Central Methodist, 32-14.

John Stouffer's four-yard run and Mike Drake's extra point accounted for Ottawa's points against William Jewell. Mark Thomas scored for Jewel on an 89-yard kickoff return, but Al Garcia missed the extra point.

Dodgers leery of fans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dusty Baker says he wouldn't care if he was in Vietnam if the World Series was there but some of his Dodgers teammates remain a little leery of the fans in New York.

Los Angeles goes back East for Tuesday's Game 6 trailing the Yankees 3 games to 2, having avoided elimination with a 10-4 victory Sunday behind right-hander Don Sutton.

"Actually, I've never been to Vietnam," admitted Baker, who had three hits and scored two runs Sunday. "It just doesn't matter to me where we play. It's better than going home for the winter."

Second baseman Davey Lopes, however, said: "I can't speak for the other guys, but speaking for myself, I'm going to wear a hard hat out there."

Reggie Smith, the Dodger who was hurt when hit on the head by a hard rubber ball thrown by a fan in the final inning of Game 2 which the Dodgers won, was reluctant to comment.

"I'm just going to play a game, that's all ... that's my feeling," said the veteran who had muscle spasms in his back

Bengals, Steelers clash

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers coming off a black Sunday, look for a little light tonight against the Cincinnati Bengals.

"It's important for us to win. We've got some tough competition in our division," said Terry Bradshaw, who may start at quarterback for the Steelers with a plastic cast on the left wrist he fractured in a punishing loss last Sunday in Houston.

Bradshaw cracked the small bone in his wrist when he fell on it after being run out of bounds, but he returned to practice last week with the aid of the cast.

"Terry's an amazingly rapid healer," Steeler team physician Dr. Paul Steele said last week. "I'm going back to medical school and take a class on Bradshaw."

If Bradshaw can't play in tonight's nationally televised game, his loss will be nothing new to the Steelers. He was sidelined with a serious neck sprain when Pittsburgh earned a pivotal 23-6 victory here last season over the Bengals.

However, the man who quarterbacked Pittsburgh in that 1976 game, Mike Kruczek, is out for the season with a shoulder separation also sustained in Houston.

That means the Steeler starter will be Bradshaw or four-year veteran Neil Graff, who rejoined the team this week after being cut late in preseason.

Both the Steelers and Bengals take 2-2 records into the game, and Cincinnati will be bidding for its first victory ever at Three Rivers Stadium, where it has lost seven in a row.

The Bengals are coming off a 17-7 victory over the Green Bay Packers, and the Cincinnati running game may be bolstered by the return of running back Archie Griffin, who's been nursing a rib injury.

The winner of the game will gain a share of first place in the tightly-bunched AFC Central Division with the Cleveland Browns and the Houston Oilers, both 3-2 after the Browns' 24-23 victory Sunday over the Oilers.

"We know them. They know us," said Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson. "There are no secrets."

Oswald: "How about some articles on hands from match point duplicate?"

Jim: "Here's a hand where South has almost enough for an opening bid. If he does open North and South are almost sure to get to game and go down. If he passes, North will open with one diamond."

Oswald: "North opens one diamond rather than one club because he wants to indicate a lead in case the opponents buy the contract."

Jim: "South should respond with one heart only. It is very bad tactics to jump merely because you have passed eleven high-card points. A jump by a passed hand should only be made with a very good hand and support for partner's bid suit."

Oswald: "Now it is North's turn to make a good bid. He should pass and let his partner play one heart."

Jim: "South will make four hearts if the defense slips. He takes his ace of clubs and queen of diamonds. Then he leads a spade to dummy, discards two clubs and a spade on good diamonds, ruffs a club and leads the queen of spades to force the opponent with the king win. West does win and must play ace and a low trump in order to hold South to nine tricks."

ASK THE JACOBYs

A Florida reader asks for a further explanation of when a player is allowed to look at the last trick.

In rubber bridge he retains that right until he or his partner has played to the current trick, in duplicate he must not have turned his card to the previous trick.

Tell someone to relieve guilt

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Desperate" and "Arizona" (both had been raped by a relative) and anyone else out there who has had the horrible experience.

For God's sake, TELL somebody. Get it out of your system. Don't keep it locked up inside you. It can be a time bomb I know. It happened to me.

When I was 11 years old my stepfather raped me. I was afraid to tell on him so I just kept quiet and made sure we were never alone together. When I reached the boy-girl dating age — in those days it was 16 — I was terrified to let a boy hold my hand. I was so tense and frightened of any contact with a male it was agony to even sit next to a boy in a movie. I also had terrible guilt feelings, as if I was responsible for what had happened to me when I was 11 years old.

The day after high school graduation I had a complete nervous breakdown. A wonderful doctor brought me back to the real world and I will never be able to thank him enough. It was he who taught me the importance of talking about the secret nightmare that I had kept buried in my mind for so many years. So, Ann, please print my letter and encourage other girls (especially young children) to tell somebody if they have the horrible experience — mother, sister, teacher, doctor, aunt. It can mean the difference between mental health and insanity. — Been There

Dear Friend: Your letter says it all. Thank you for sitting in my chair today. You had a lot to say and you said it better than I could.

Dear Ann: You told "Everybody's Mom" it would be cruel to turn away the teenage neighbor boys who had been kicked out by their parents. I know you meant well, Ann, but I hope she checks the boys' stories.

I speak from experience. Our son has run away eight times. I'm sure he wouldn't have been so quick to take off if our many well-meaning neighbors had not given him food and shelter. — Walked In Those Moccasins

Dear Moc: You have a point. The question, "May I phone your parents?" would clarify the situation. Thanks for the input.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband was married before and has two children; one is six, the other is seven. Every Sunday and holiday it's the same story. I am alone because my Dennis wants to be with his children. So off he goes and leaves me sitting alone — in tears.

(Incidentally, his ex-wife is always at home, so that means they are together — like a family.)

I told Dennis how upsetting it is to be left alone so much but he just shrugs his shoulders and says he can't force his children to come to our house — he claims he has suggested it many times and they always say no. I have never met the children so they can't have anything against me.

Should I put my foot down and tell Dennis I won't put up with it any more? Please help me, Ann. I'm really in a fix. — Blue Monday

Dear Blue: If you give Dennis an "either-or" he just might choose his children. Are you prepared for such a move?

Dennis should have some counseling. He needs to understand that he is being very unfair to you. (Apparently, you can't deliver the message effectively.) You could use some guidance, too, honey. I think your marriage is in trouble.

Two pedestrians among 10 to die in accidents

By The Associated Press

Two pedestrians were among the 10 persons killed on Missouri streets and highways over the weekend.

A 12-year-old Williamsburg youth died Sunday when he was struck by a car while walking on a service road near Interstate 70.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said James Leroy Newsom was struck about three miles west of Missouri Route D in Callaway County.

Kristen Bell Hansen, 22, Webb City, died Sunday after being hit by a car while walking along Interstate 44, seven miles east of Joplin.

In another accident Saturday, Mark Steven Lang, 15, Wright City, was killed when he lost control of his truck on I-70 in St. Charles County and it ran off the road.

Donna Riley, 20, Cedar City, died Sunday of injuries she received in an accident on a Callaway County road near her hometown.

Bernice Weeks, 67, Elsberry, died Sunday of injuries she received Saturday in a head-on collision on U.S. 54 near Louisiana, Mo. Wayne Masters, 50, Bowling Green, Mo., also was killed in the accident.

Steven Dougherty, 11, Bakersfield, was killed Saturday in a three-car crash in Johnson County, Mo.

Kevin Eugene Weir, 17, St. Louis, was killed early Saturday when the car he was driving struck a bridge on Interstate 55 in southeast Missouri. Weir was hitchhiking when he was picked up by two St. Louis men who assigned him driving duties.

Dorothy Foster, 29, Polo, was killed Saturday in a two-car accident on a county road near the Ray-Caldwell county line.

William Schmidt, 21, Ste. Genevieve, was killed Saturday morning when his car ran off U.S. 61 near his hometown.

Two deaths occurred Sunday which were not officially classified as traffic fatalities. Frank L. Kelley, 69, St. Louis County, apparently suffered a heart attack while driving and his car crashed into a light pole.

Curtis K. Cochell, 50, Jefferson City, died in a three-car accident on a Jefferson City street Sunday morning. Authorities say an autopsy has been ordered because of indications Cochell may have died from a heart attack rather than as a result of the accident.

Country store retains old-time charm

AUSTIN, Nev. (AP) — In an age when Americans do their grocery shopping in huge, well-lit modern supermarkets, Bill and Carol Givens are letting the dust settle in their old-fashioned country store.

"Watch your step," Mrs. Givens, 40, says as she points to a large puddle next to the canned goods. "The roof leaks here and there and over there."

She walks to a row of hanging chili peppers and dusts them off. "Dust is in keeping with this store," she chuckles.

The Country Store is on the main street in this central Nevada mining town. And what a store it is.

Why, you can even reach your hand into a glass jar on the old wooden counter and buy penny candy, although other jars contain candy that might cost a little more.

Givens, 57, and his wife have rejected all attempts at modernizing their market, even though the other one in town has put up a new front and its aisles are wide and almost hospital clean.

The Country Store is different.

As you walk in the front door you might turn to your right and see yourself in the mirror.

"We have ladies who come in here and look at themselves in the mirror and then ask us what the mirror is set in," Mrs. Givens says. "Sometimes they're shocked to discover it's a coffin lid. We left the plaque off that said 'MOTHER' and inserted a mirror where netting used to be."

Instead of many numbered aisles, it has two and if you don't squint you may not see what you need.

"People say, 'Gee, it's so dark in here,' Mrs. Givens explains. "But let them get glasses. This is the way it was at the turn of the century. Then they say, 'Gee, these counters are old. Why don't you get new ones?' Well, this is in keeping with the store."

She then walks to the cash register.

"Look here," she says. "See this cash register? Notice anything strange about it? Well, the most it'll ring up is $1.95. We use it sometimes."

The Givens family purchased the market in the 1920s, when it was a dry goods store. In the store today you'll still see many of the same products sold early in this century. But those items aren't for sale.

"We hope to open up a museum next door in the spring," Mrs. Givens says.

The museum is being built next door. When finished, it will consist of three rooms — a kitchen, parlor, bedroom. The rooms will be decorated in antiques found around this once booming mining town.

Givens, a soft-spoken man, has lived in Austin all his life. His wife came here in 1971 after running an art gallery at Lake Tahoe.

In addition to running the store, the couple spend time making ceramics and designing silver.

Hunting accident fatal for man, 26

WARRENTON, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County man was killed over the weekend when he was shot through the chest while deer hunting with a bow in Reifsnider State Forest in Warren County, police said.

Dead is Stanley L. Bode, 26, of Maryland Heights.

The Missouri Highway Patrol said Bode was fatally injured Saturday by an arrow shot by another bowhunter.

Authorities said an investigation of the incident will be conducted by the patrol and Warren County officials.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In one momentous day President Carter got the steel companies off his back, and then stepped on the toes of that other symbol of industrial might, the nation's oil producers.

And in doing so he sent a shiver through all private enterprise, which has been campaigning for its very life against the mistaken notion that everything it takes in somehow swells the bank accounts of a favored few.

Some $50 billion, he said, would "go into the pockets of the oil companies themselves" if Congress rejected his program to continue regulating oil and gas prices.

But later the President's figures were shown to be quite literally in gross exaggeration. The President, it appears, made the same error so many others also make: He confused gross revenues with net income.

The truth is that petroleum and coal product companies, according to the President's own economic report to Congress this year, took in as profit during 1976 only eight cents or so for every dollar of sales.

Those profits went not to a few but to millions of investors. All the rest of revenues went for salaries, taxes, investment in facilities, transportation and general overhead.

No matter what their feelings about oil, therefore, there is consternation in the business community today because, in total contradiction of their efforts, they have been set apart from the total community. It is "them" against "we the people."

President John F. Kennedy did something of the sort back in 1962 when, after feeling he was double-crossed through a price increase by U.S. Steel chairman Roger Blough, he referred to his father's warning that businessmen are SOB's.

But there is a vast difference between Kennedy and Carter. Kennedy's remark was spontaneous; Carter's was calculated. Kennedy's remark was an eruption of hot emotion; Carter's considered remarks cut like cold steel.

What Carter said was the very thing that businessmen hoped they wouldn't hear from a president. They are fully aware of the impact of a president's remarks. "If he said it, it must be true." Or so some people will say.

Texas trial to shift to defense testimony

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Defense attorneys may finally get their chance to begin introducing evidence Monday they hope will sway a state court jury to acquit Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis of capital murder charges.

Davis, 44, is on trial in the shooting death last summer of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

She died in a midnight shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion in Fort Worth that left another man dead and two wounded.

Davis' estranged wife, Priscilla, was wounded and her boyfriend, Stan Farr, died in the carnage. A visitor to the mansion, Gus Gavrel Jr., was also wounded.

"The state has now corroborated its three eyewitnesses to this case with abundant physical and scientific evidence," prosecutor Marvin Collins said after Saturday's session.

"Specifically, the state has proved that the bullet found under the body of Andrea Wilborn was fired from the same gun that killed Stan Farr."

Fort Worth crime lab director Frank Shiller provided the last critical link in the state's case, matching up bullets recovered from the shooting scene.

It was the key circumstantial evidence prosecutors needed to tie Davis to the death of Miss Wilborn.

Since there were no eyewitnesses to the slaying of Andrea and the weapon was not recovered, it was essential that the state show the same gun was used in both shootings.

Lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes began his cross-examination of Shiller Saturday.

Haynes has charged that police conducted a shabby investigation of the shooting scene, overlooking or disregarding evidence critical to Davis' defense.

Ineligible Medicaid payments

Califano cites tax waste

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal and state governments are wasting $1 billion in tax money a year in ineligible Medicaid payments, says the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Sunday that 4.7 million ineligible claims totaling $229 million were paid between April and September 1976.

"Now, if you project that for a year — that is just federal dollars — that is almost half a billion dollars, and the states are matching those payments; that is another half billion dollars," Califano said. "So just in terms of ineligible payments, we are throwing $1 billion a year away in this country."

The figures, taken from HEW's computerized review of Medicaid transactions, include payments to health care providers, such as doctors, and to recipients.

Califano commented on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

The review was instituted in April because the program for the needy has "grown like Topsy," but has received "inadequate attention" for several years, Califano said.

Called Project Integrity, the computer review already has looked at 250 million transactions involving pharmacists and physicians. It found 47,000 were questionable or improper.

HEW has sent the 2,500 most serious cases to the states, which are beginning probes of doctors and pharmacists in their jurisdictions. More cases will be referred to states in the future, Califano said.

The department previously announced some of its specific findings. For instance, a doctor said he performed three tonsillectomies on the same patient last year. A pharmacist filed a claim for 120 pills a day for 204 consecutive days for one person.

Califano also predicted the U.S. Supreme Court will uphold special school admissions programs for minority students.

He called it "perfectly legitimate" for schools to seek minority candidates and added, "I find it inconceivable that the court will rule in favor of Bakke."

Allan Bakke, a white male, claimed he was denied admission to medical school in California while less qualified minority candidates were accepted under a special admissions program.

The California Supreme Court ruled Bakke was a victim of reverse discrimination, and the University of California at Davis appealed. The U.S. Supreme Court heard oral arguments last week and is due to rule before the end of its term next summer.

American Indians linked with India?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — When Christopher Columbus pronounced the inhabitants of the New World "Indians," a researcher says he may not have been mistaken after all.

Dr. Joseph B. Mahan researched the matter here and abroad, and he concludes that members of certain tribes now living in Oklahoma are direct descendants of people who established a flourishing civilization in India more than 500 centuries ago.

Mahan, 56, is executive director of a historic reconstruction project near Lumpkin, Ga., called Westville Village.

He and his wife, Kathryn, a musicologist, received a grant for a five-month study in Pakistan and India, tracing similarities among American Indians and ancient civilizations of the Indus Valley.

Writing in the autumn issue of Oklahoma Today, the official state magazine, Mahan claims to have found "positive" evidence linking the cultures and supporting migrations to America.

Mahan says he has discovered that the names of peoples who inhabited the Bronze Age cities now called Harappa and Mohenjo-daro coincide in at least a dozen cases with names of American Indian tribes or 16th century Indian settlements found by European explorers.

Besides the linguistic ties, Mahan says there are also significant parallels between American Indians and the Indus Valley civilization in physical characteristics, pottery and craft work, style of dress and religious philosophy.

But he says the most convincing similarity is among the names the peoples called themselves.

American Indian tribes including the Yuchi, Shawnee, Sac and Fox, Creeks and Cherokees were almost certainly descended from the wandering remnants of the Indus Valley civilization, Mahan says.

Writing a doctoral dissertation at the University of North Carolina, Mahan says he became convinced that the Yuchi brought a "fully developed and highly sophisticated" culture into the southeastern United States from somewhere outside the area.

4-H News

The LaMonte 4-H Club met on Oct. 10 at the Craig Community Center.

Kathryn Minor was elected president of the group; Donald Nelson, vice president; Karin Minor, secretary; Denise Miller, treasurer; Kim David, council representative; Stephen Williams and Brian Harrison, game leaders; Kevin Fisher and Michelle Stallard, song leaders.

A Christmas supper with the Dresden 4-H was planned for Dec. 15 at the school. The club also decided to enter a float in the Christmas parade.

After his research in India and Pakistan, Mahan says he is now sure that culture was developed in the Indus Valley.

"I have long been convinced that some American Indians were part of a worldwide bronze age culture," Mahan says.

He suggests that representatives of the Indus Valley culture, who he describes as "people of the sea," could have sailed by established routes to the southeastern United States 5,000 years ago.

It was during past studies of the Yuchi now in northeast Oklahoma, and his research in Pakistan and India from January to May this year, that Mahan says he came across the "good, valid, historical information" he needed to link the peoples now a hemisphere apart.

Full truckload of '78's just arrived!

See what makes Mazda's GLC a Great Little Car.

Imagine. An electrically operated hatch that unlatches automatically just by pushing a button below the dashboard! It's something no other car in America offers—at any price. You may, of course, open the hatch from the outside as well.

Try to find another car at this price with a rear window wiper and washer, and a rear window defroster, as standard equipment.

GLC has a rear seat that splits in half. No other car in GLC's class offers that. It means you can haul around people and cargo and packages. Or that you can fold both seats flat for a big, wide fully carpeted deck.

45 mpg highway, 35 mpg city* Naturally, these are EPA estimates, and they're based on the optional 5-speed transmission. Your mileage may vary depending on how and where you drive, your car's condition, and optional equipment.

Get a great little price on the Great Little Car.
